DC Abolishes Residency Requirement for Employes

FIRE CAPT. JOHN ROY holds oxygen mask over face of dog after nearly suffocated animal was discovered by Photographer Robert Burton in a pile of rags and clothing in the garage of a Daly City home that was gutted by fire Monday. Animal, black with white markings, was nearly dead when found, but is described today by firemen as "just fine" after treatment by a local veterinarian. (Post Photo by Burton)

New Budget Will Include Pay Hikes, Tax Boost

In one of the smoothest budget sessions held in Daly City, the city council switched their previous stand and abolished the much disputed "residency requirement" for city employees.

At the same time, the member council also agreed on giving employees not less than a five per cent pay hike.

It was the first time anyone could recall that the city had passed a budget before the June 30 deadline.

Assistant city manager David Rowe informed the council that the new $6,984,040 budget — even though $1,918,640 had been lopped off original departmental requests — will require not less than a 25-cent tax rate hike.

"The exact rate cannot be determined until after August 15, when a firm figure on assessments is provided by the County Assessor," Rowe explained.

But city employees were jubilant over the new wage and fringe benefit agreements.

For years the battle had raged between employees and city councilmen over the residency requirement which stipulated city employees must live in Daly City.

Last year employees walked off the job for three weeks when council and union members could not agree on the proposed wage and fringe benefits.

The council finally agreed to lift the curtain on the controversial order Monday and as of July 1, employees may live as

Woman Dies in Trailer Fire

A SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO woman was fatally burned Tuesday when fire gutted a trailer home on El Camino Real. Mrs. Geraldine Silverman, 45, died in the fire which began about 11:45 a.m. in a trailer park at 1340 El Camino Real. Her husband, Frank, 55, who was sleeping in another room of the trailer when flames engulfed the kitchen and rear bedroom, was admitted to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. Firemen said the trailer was "completely involved" in the blaze, and it was not possible to determine the cause. Damage to the trailer and contents was estimated at $12,000. Another trailer parked nearby was also damaged slightly by the blaze. (Post Photo)

$22,500 Loss Estimated

Blaze Guts Home

An intensely hot fire of undetermined origin Monday razed a Daly City home, causing an estimated $22,500 damage to the structure and its contents.

A fire department official said the four-bedroom residence at 43 Southdale was totally engulfed when firemen arrived, and appeared to have been burning for well over a half an hour before firemen were called, at 2:07 p.m.

Every room in the house was damaged.

A fire captain, John Roy, was injured when he slipped. He was said to have hurt his right arm and hand.

Firemen, upon arriving at the scene, were told that "some children" might be inside, along with a dog.

Three trips into the house for a room by room, closet-by-closet search proved fruitless. It turned out that there was no one home at the time the fire started, firemen declared.

The dog, a 14-year-old, black, with white markings was not found immediately. However, later a freelance photographer, Robert Burton, on assignment for the Post tripped over the animal, huddled in a pile of old rags and clothing, nearly suffocated, in the garage.

The garage attached to the house, was the only undamaged portion of the residence, although flames had started to burn through from the living room.

Sheetrock inside the garage helped to confine the blaze to the living room area, although

Damien House Sets Information Meet

Related News, Page 8

An informational meeting on the proposed Damien House "drop-in center for young people" in South San Francisco will be held this evening at the Aldersgate Methodist Church on El Campo Drive, sponsors of the project announced today.

Rudie Tretten, chairman of the North County Steering Committee for Damien House, and the Rev. Gilbert Viera said the purpose of the meeting will be to "attempt to enlist community support" for the project, which has met with opposition from some official city quarters.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m., and all interested residents of the city are urged to attend, Tretten said.

Officials of Damien House Monday applied for a use permit to operate the facility, and the South San Francisco Planning Commission is expected to take up the matter at a meeting July 14.

City Planner Daniel Pass last week voiced strong opposition to the proposed facility, which would be located in a residential neighborhood at 233 Willow Road, and is expected to recommend that planning commissioners deny the use permit application.

Pass was highly critical of the Damien House operation in San Mateo in his report to the council last week, in spite of numerous testimonials in favor of the operation from police agencies and other official sources.

San Bruno's Tax Rate Up 14 Cents

A tax rate of $1.29 per each $100 of assessed valuation has been established by San Bruno City Mgr. Gerard Vergeer to finance a $4-million budget.

Vergeer disclosed the rate determination was made after last week's budget session, at which the city council approved cuts in the proposed recreation department budget of some $22,000, to be seen primarily through the elimination of one person from the staff of each playground.

Increased salary and retirement categories has had much to do with the boost of the rate from the $1.15 paid for the past three years.

Vergeer said he had estimated assessed valuation at $73-millions, though final county figures have yet to be received.

Vergeer had anticipated a tax rate of $1.35, but further trimming enabled the city to avoid the 20-cent boost.

Free Trash Dump Days In South S.F.

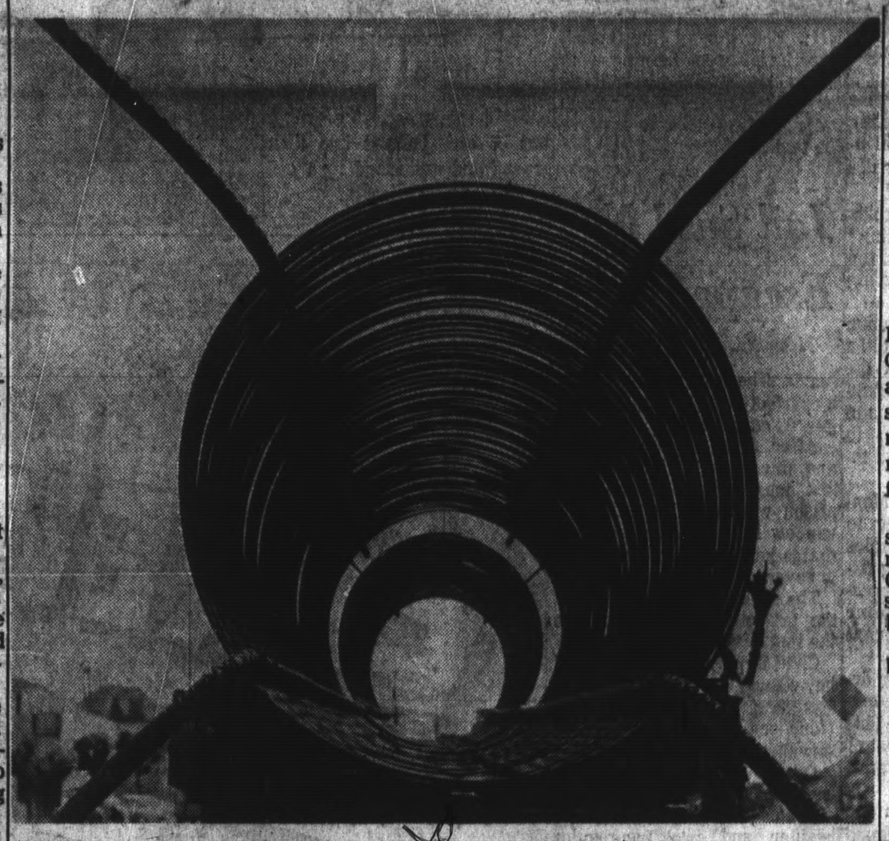
South San Francisco residents will have an opportunity to dispose of trash at no charge during the final two weekends of the city's current cleanup campaign, Assistant City Manager Larry Ross said.

Residents of Winston Manor, Serra Highlands and Buri Buri will be allowed to dispose of "anything the homeowner wishes to discard and can fit into his vehicle" this weekend, Ross said.

The dumping privilege will be available to residents of Avalon Pines, Avalon Park, Brentwood, Westborough and West Park July 12 and 13.

Collection point for the refuse is the South San Francisco Scavenger Co. yard at 69 Linden Avenue. Four employees of the scavenger company will be on hand to assist residents in unloading their automobiles.

The free dumping is restricted to South San Francisco residents, and no commercial discards will be allowed, Ross said.



A Big, Bad BART Bug

NO, IT'S NOT a giant insect, but rather the Bay Area Rapid Transit system which is crawling its way from San Francisco toward Daly City. Post Photographer Bob Burton captured this surrealistic, and perhaps symbolic, "insect" shot of reinforcement steel at the BART construction site at Alemany Boulevard and San Jose Avenue near the San Francisco-Daly City city limits.

S.F. Jail Near San Bruno Is 'Far From Escape Proof'

The San Francisco county jail near San Bruno is far from escape-proof and any inmate with a little muscle and the ability to tie two blankets together can flee the facility it seems.

Lats month, four inmates—all considered to be "minimum" security prisoners—pried apart a Ping-pong table on the fifth floor of the six-story building and used the wooden two-by-fours as a lever to spread apart window bars.

Minutes later the four men were on the ground and running for the six-foot-high wire fence which surrounds the prison grounds.

The mesh wire offered little barrier to the man and they tunneled under, heading for the coastside city of Pacifica.

Prison officials noted with some dismay that a standard "breakout" kit consists of nothing more than pieces of wood and blankets.

Thanks to the soft iron construction of the cell and dormitory windows, spreading them for enough apart to allow an average-sized man to crawl through is not a great problem.

In the evening, the majority of inmates are released from their cells and allowed into the cell block as a group to watch television, chat or play table

One Youth Arrested, Three Are Hurt in S.S.F. Accident

Three South San Francisco teen-agers were hospitalized Monday after an automobile in which they were riding smashed into a retaining wall at the intersection of Randolph and Pecks Lane.

Injured were Richard Davis, 18, of 339 Lux Avenue, driver of the vehicle; his brother, Phillip Davis, 16, and Arthur Olson, 15, of 717 Miller Avenue.

Phillip Davis was the most seriously injured of the trio, police said.

Transit Terminal

D.C. and BARTD Talks Continue

Talks between the Bay Area Rapid Transit District and Daly City are progressing smoothly and an agreement on station design of the North County terminus station is expected to be reached by mid-July, an informed source predicted.

The optimistic outlook for the start of construction on the much-disputed facility in Daly City came about as a result of a series of staff talks between both agencies in recent weeks.

For more than two years, both sides "held the line" on certain demands and talks (when they were infrequently held) were very formal and very cold.

But in the last month each side has expressed a willingness to bend their demands and make an attempt at studying the other side's problems.

For example: BARTD insisted on an aerial station with parking for about 650 cars. Daly City insisted on an underground design and feared motorists would flood nearby streets with their vehicles if they could not find adequate parking space in the station lot.

After months of intensive engineering studies, BARTD presented a modified plan for a station depressed into a "cut," plus plans for a parking lot that could be built in layers as the volume of cars using the station increased.

Best of all, the parking lot might qualify for Federal funding, thereby saving the district — and taxpayers — thousands of dollars, BARTD general manager Bill Stokes told a joint meeting of Daly City and BARTD officials.

Daly City had dashed off an eight-point demand to BARTD regarding the station, some

Fire Chief Would Sell 'Old No. 1'

South San Francisco Fire Chief John Marchi has requested council permission to sell "Old Number One," the fire department's 1927 model Seagrave Pumper, to a member of a San Francisco fire buffs' organization.

In a memorandum to the council, Chief Marchi said a member of the Phoenix Organization in San Francisco, a nationally known group of fire enthusiasts, has expressed interest in purchasing the vintage fire truck for use in ceremonial parades.

According to the chief, the department would receive "in the neighborhood of $400" for the ancient machine.

He is recommending that the money received for the 1927 model truck be used to restore as a museum piece an even older 1915 model stored at one of the city's fire stations.

"The 1927 model truck is out of service because of its age, and we were planning to give it away to some fire department badly needing an engine," Marchi said, "as it only takes up space needed for other purposes here."

However, no fire department can use the truck because it has two-wheel brakes, according to the chief.

"The law now requires that all emergency vehicles have four-wheel brakes."

The engine was last used in 1967, and has been idle since that time.

In addition to the economic advantages in selling the truck, months ago and sat back waiting for a reply. None came!

As BARTD construction moved closer to the end of the 75-mile system, and work was progressing rapidly at the nearby Balboa Park station, it became obvious the two bodies would have to enter into serious discussions.

Once the contractors began erecting aerial track pillars the Daly City station design would be set. Tearing up track at a late date would only add to the expense of the system, a BARTD staff official explained.

Daly City Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett and BARTD officials agreed that informal talks be held between BARTD and city staff members. They also agreed to take the talks out of the news media "spotlight."

Both sides agreed that once staff worked out certain problems (street traffic flow, signalization, widening of streets, et al.) key officials, themselves, would finalize the agreement.

As of last week the agreement over station design — a three-track depressed station with parking for 1,250 cars — had nearly been reached.

Baseball Fatal To S.S.F. Coach

Walter Paul Koetz, 57, of Apt. 51, 214 Holly Avenue, South San Francisco, died Monday at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City—apparently of head injuries suffered when he was struck by a baseball while acting as a coach for a Pony League team at South San Francisco's Orange Avenue Memorial Park on June 21, the coroner's office reported this morning.

According to Coroner's Investigator Joseph Keegan, Koetz was standing in a dugout when he was struck by the ball during a game. Although he remained for the rest of the game, Koetz was taken to Mary's Help Hospital at the end of the game for an examination.

Keegan reported that Koetz was released after an X-ray examination and sent home, where, his wide, Mildred, reported he complained of a headache, became confused and collapsed. He was rushed back to the hospital and admitted to the intensive care unit. He was operated on, but died Monday at 7 p.m.

far north as San Francisco and as far south as Redwood City.

Angry firemen last year threatened to walk off the job, and hired an attorney through the Firemen's Benevolent Association to fight city hall after they failed to get parity pay with police.

This year the firemen's lot was bettered, but they still do not have parity pay with police.

Both agencies received five per cent pay hikes.

Firemen, however were given an increased uniform allowance — from $60 to $100 annually.

Another plus for city employees is the increase in allowable accrual of unused sick time from 150 to 180 working days.

Firemen and police are forbidden to strike under the terms of the new agreement and employes required to work on holidays will be paid cash in an amount equivalent to 4.5 per cent of the employee's annual salary.

Vacation time was likewise raised to five weeks leave after 25 years service, along with increased medical benefits for dependents.

The new agreement forbids employees from "moonlighting" while on official time for the city. It does not mention having a second job when off duty.

Municipal Employes' union representative Frank Gillis called the package "one of the finest we've ever had" and publicaly thanked the council and staff for their cooperation in putting the new agreement together.

In closing his remarks Monday, Rowe said "in order to achieve budgetary economies necessary to end the coming fiscal year . . . it will be necessary to delay the filling of some positions as they become vacant . . ."

The city will also consider deleting certain positions as employees resign or retire. This move may decrease the level of service in some city programs, Rowe pointed out.

The "delay" will be from two to three months and is designed to recover some of the monies expended on wage hikes and increased fringe benfits, according to Row.

Meanwhile, the council Monday approved the transfer of the Parks and Maintenance Division from the Public Works Department over to the Recreation Department.

The move will allow better control of all departments dealing with parks, officials said.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO Fire Chief John Marchi has requested council authorization to sell "Old Number One," the city's 1927 model fire truck, to a San Francisco fire buffs' organization. Chief Marchi is proposing that the money received for the 1927 model be used to restore a 1915 model fire engine owned by the city. The truck pictured is the 1927 Seagrave Pumper the chief is proposing to sell.

Westborough Fund Sliced

A $10,000 slice has been taken out of the Westborough Boulevard Extension construction fund by the County Board of Supervisors and added to the county's contribution to the Woodside Road improvement project in Redwood City.

Deputy County Engineer S. H. Cantwell asked the board to approve the transfer to meet a deficit in the Redwood City project. Members of the board, who have been fighting with South San Francisco officials for years over the Westborough project, were quick to approve the request.

tennis. The loud talking makes a perfect cover for escapes, guards agree.

After prying apart the bars and smashing out the glass, the last four convicts to flee the prison went out the fifth floor window head first as fellow inmates kept up a steady chatter to cover any noise.

The shortage of manpower at the prison apparently aided in the inmates' successful escape.

Chief Deputy Burns has stated he would like to assign not less than two guards per tier (four per floor) for proper observance of the inmates.

On the night of the most recent escape (there have been nine this year already) only one regular and two non-regular guards were on duty at the facility.

A survey team made up of experts in the field of law enforcement recently completed a study of the institution in San Bruno and are expected to make their findings public in the near future.

What disturbs residents of the area, however, is what precautions are being taken to protect them. —FRANK LAPIERRE.

S.S.F. Firemen Aid Gauge Men

Firemen do many things for many folks; and the hours are not usually in the fireman's favor.

But, in South San Francisco on Tuesday, firemen received one of its most unusual calls.

It was at 3:30 a.m., according to a fire department official, that the box alarm at S. Canal and Starlight streets, was pulled.

Firemen pulled themselves out of bed, jumped into their trucks and responded to a call of undetermined nature.

Arriving at the fire alarm box, they were greeted by two men — firemen didn't release names — who promptly explained they were workers in a nearby building, had gone out for a breath of fresh air, got locked out, didn't have enough money to phone anyone, and, well:

"They didn't know what else to do," sums the reasoning, a fireman said.

"We got them in," the fireman said, though he was quick to admit they might not have been so helpful if one of the locked-out duo had not described his task as a watcher of gauges in the boiler room.

Marchi noted in his memorandum that the Phoenix Organization members are "good friends of firemen everywhere," and intimated "Old Number One" would be in good hands.

"The Phoenix Organization members devote a considerable amount of time and effort to furthering fire protection service," he said. "They assist firemen at large fires, and also serve as first aiders!"

He said the individual who has offered to purchase the truck is a prominent San Franciscan. —DON GRIERSON.

Fire Guts Home In Daly City

the front wall of the living room area, near the fireplace, had quarter-inch panelling instead of sheetrock, a fire official recalled.

"Had it all been sheetrocked, however, the damage would have been lighter," the fire spokesman said.

The tenant of the house was listed by firemen as Mrs. Margaret Brooks.

The fire official said that apparently the woman's sons, Tim and Les Allen (one is 16 years old, the other 19, it was reported), and two "roomers," Michael O'Shea and Peter Bellak, also said to be teen-agers, lived at the house.

The boys attend school, the fireman said, and the youngest had left for college in the morning, presumably the last one in the house prior to the start of the fire.

The only occupant at the time apparently was the dog.

"With the heat and toxic gasses from all of the burning material, it's a wonder he didn't die from it," the fire official noted.

The living and dining rooms, the hallway and kitchen were discribed by firemen as "gutted," with furnishings, walls and cabinetry destroyed.

Four bedrooms and two baths were damaged to the extent firemen said, that sheet rock will have to be removed. Soot was reported to be thick throughout.

The heat of the fire — it was described by one fireman as "hotter than hell in there!" — burned a large portion of a once-green front lawn and reduced a plastic garden hose outside to "just a glob".

The large front window had already blown out by the time firemen were summoned, and flames were still licking out the openings.

Though the cause has not yet been determined, it is believed the blaze started in the front portion of the house where heat, flame and damage were the greatest.

Damage was estimated at $15,500 to the house and $7,000 to its contents. —WILL THOMAS.

S.F. Jail Visit ... Officials Express 'Concern'

Coast Mayor, Assemblyman View SF Jail

Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan and Pacifica Mayor Nick Gust made an impromptu visit to San Francisco's county jail in San Bruno Friday and came away expressing concern for the safety of residents living in the area.

Ryan said the condition of the institution itself and the type of inmates presently serving sentences there "scared" him.

"People in the North County have a right to protection," Ryan said, "and I want to know what prison officials are doing to thwart future escapes?"

Instead of getting a positive answer from Chief Deputy Thomas J. Burns, another escape attempt was probably already in the making.

Another Attempt

"I wouldn't be surprised if an other attempt to escape wasn't being made right now," Burns said. "They (the inmates) see stories in the paper and they like the notoriety."

Three weeks ago two escapees from the jail allegedly blungeoned an elderly Pacifica man to death and badly mauled his wife.

Mayor Gust informed Burns the entire north county was concerned over the incident and "We don't want it to happen again."

Ryan offered "whatever assistance I can give on a state level" and asked what Sheriff's Department officials were doing "at this time" to thwart future escapes.

Requests

Burns explained that requests for some $33,000 to install steel strips over the cell windows had been made and a continuous plea for additional guards is pending.

"Sheriff (Matthew) Carberry has repeatedly asked for 50 additional deputies. We get three in July," Burns replied.

Blame for the present situation is the type of inmate now being handled at the prison, according to Burns.

"This was built as a minimum security institution and now we have about 40 per cent maximum security inmates," Burns said.

The courts likewise came under fire from Burns, who said many felony crimes are being reduced to misdemeanors for the sake of convenience.

Gust said San Mateo County was "sick and tired" of inheriting San Francisco's problems and suggested the city take over Alcatraz and return the island to its former maximum security prison status.

740 Inmates

The prison, designed more than 25 years ago as a minimum security institution for not more than 600 drunks, pickpockets and non-support crimes, yesterday recorded 740 inmates.

The figure has been as high as 847, a guard said.

There are five tiers inside the facility, each with a double dormitory. Cells line each side of the dormitory.

Burns thinks each tier should have two guards on-duty at all times to insure maximum security.

The bars of the prison are old and made of "soft" iron. They are easily spread enough to allow an average size man to slip through in a matter of minutes, Burns explained.

And while there is a sixth floor maximum security "hole," the construction is the same as in all other cells.

Leaving the prison an hour after they entered, Ryan and Gust promised to pursue the matter further or "until we come up with some positive answers."

CONCERNED POLITICIANS — Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan (right) and Pacifica Mayor Nick Gust (left) explain the reason for their impromptu visit to the San Bruno jail last week in the wake of a mass escape which ended with an elderly Pacifica man being murdered.

Mayors Face Realities Of Transit

The San Mateo County Council of Mayors, meeting in Burlingame Wednesday, was urged by Mayor Samuel H. Halsted of Portola Valley to set up a committee of six to plan for the future transit needs of the county.

Noting voters rejected plans of the West Bay Rapid Transit Authority by an overwhelming majority, Halsted asserted the Peninsula is still faced with a growing problem. He said something needs to be done if the $1½-million already spent by the transit authority, soon to go out of existence, is to be saved.

"We do not really have a mandate of the people to solve the problem right now," Halsted agreed, but, he said, "as responsible trustees for the future we must continue to plan for the future."

He suggested a committee of six mayors or councilmen, three of whom were directors of the transit authority, be named to a board "for future transportation planning, using the money that is still available, to study all proposals — from regional bodies, or from San Francisco, such as a system to the San Francisco International Airport . . . Somebody will move in, ABAG or a regional government, and we shall have a system presented to us whether we like it or not. The problem will still be with us, and this group should be involved in its solution."

In answer to a question of Mayor Lewis Grassberger of Millbrae, Halsted estimated that some $130,000 in West Bay Rapid Transit funds are still available.

"I think the people of San Mateo have spoken," Mayor Neil J. Christal of San Bruno retorted. "If you approve this motion, you are saying the people of San Mateo County want it. I think you are out of order. It may be proper for a future study, but we shouldn't take action on it tonight."

"This is something we shall have to take a long time considering," Halsted agreed. "Whether we take it up now or three meetings in the future, I think it needs consideration."

Robert St. Clair, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, said that the county board is split two to two on the matter.

"This will give our newly appointed supervisor (Councilman Gerald E. Day of Belmont) an opportunity to clear up a stalemate," St. Clair explained while supervisors are not opposed to some sort of future planning, it is incorrect to say they favor extension of the West Bay Rapid Transit Authority.

"Two members feel a five to one vote of the people is a clear mandate," St. Clair emphasized. "The proposals presented to the people were not acceptable."

"As a member of the board, I would not vote for its extension," Councilman William R. Lawson of Menlo Park commented. "As I see it, the cities have more responsibility than the supervisors, and I do think this group would abrogate its responsibility to allow someone else to move in and present us with some system whether we like it or not."

Plan for Water or Run Dry, Mayors Warned

"By all studies, we will be without water between the years 2000 and 2020," Mayor Thomas M. Jenkins of San Carlos warned the San Mateo Council of Mayors meeting in Burlingame Wednesday—urging that a joint powers agency be set up among various cities to plan for a future water supply.

"By out of water, I mean all water available to San Francisco's Hetch Hetchy system and all other sources available," Jenkins, member of a San Mateo County water planning committee, said flatly.

"Water is an expensive thing," he continued, "and planning for it takes time. Thirty years is a very short time."

Jenkins noted that it was predicted 10 years ago that a dam on Pescadero Creek would be available by 1970 or 1972. "Now thd most optimistic estimate is in the 1980s. Yet plans yave been under study for 10 years. It is time now that political entities must decide what to do. Take this back to the people. Let them decide what they want to do — pass a bond issue or what."

In the meantime, Jenkins recommended that the joint powers agency be set up to act on planning. He said a proposed agreement has been prepared which has deliberately left out questions of financing and how the county should proceed to allow cities to decide, voluntarily, what type of agency they want.

"Any city can pull out at any time they want to," Jenkins promised. "We do not want any commitment on financing."

Jenkins proposed that each mayor and a water agency representative be appointed from each city and area. He noted that Daly City and Burlingame have already gone along with his proposal, and reported that as soon as 11 additional cities approve the proposal the joint powers agency will become a fact.

Jenkins reported that San Francisco has agreed to drop for the time being, a water rate increase that would mostly affect San Mateo and other Bay counties, and has agreed to retain an outside consultant to see what nondiscriminatory rates should apply.

"Mayor Alioto wants to meet with the representatives of the Council of Mayors and the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors to discuss rates as well as other matters of general concern," he said.

It was agreed that Mayor R. David Martin, president of the mayor's group, and Robert St. Clair, supervisors' chairman, should get together to set up a meeting with Alioto.

The mayors put over a proposed resolution opposing a resolution adopted by San Francisco supervisors that the San Francisco Plumbers' Union local be given jurisdiction at San Francisco International Airport.

Although almost all the mayors favored their resolution, Mayor Neil J. Christal of San Bruno objected that the Mayor's council should not take action on the grounds it is not an elective body.

"There is no legal status for this board," Christal asserted. "It is an agency for the dissemination of ideas. Even though my city has gone on record as favoring this, I'm concerned with the impression we are creating with the public."

On the grounds that any matter brought up before the council must be postponed until the next meeting unless the mayors act unanimously on it, Martin continued the proposal to a meeting next month.

Martin named Mayor Samuel H. Halsted of Portola Valley, Christal, Mayor Bernard Lycett of Daly City and Mayor Victor Tigerman of Half Moon Bay to a committee to make recommendations on current state legislation.

Kiwanis Sets New Officers

New officers of the Kiwanis Club of San Bruno-Millbrae are president, Doctor Carols Montandon; vice president and president-elect, the Rev. John Flucke; secretary, Val Padovan; and treasurer, Al Cimonetti.

Members of the Board of Directors are Eugene Gallagher, Jack Gerwin, F. H. Jackson, Al Lynde, Gerry Vergeer, Paul Vogel and Paul Wessel.

Members will be working in the Fourth of July fireworks booths, and driving the cable car.

Student Is Arrested

San Bruno police Wednesday arrested a student from Mountain View on a felony check charge, the result of a Bank of America branch allegation the 19-year-old had overdrawn his account by some $600.

In custody is Thomas Denny Harris of 2060 California Street, Mountain View, who was arrested at the San Bruno Bank of America branch at 465 San Mateo Avenue.

A police department spokesman said Harris had attempted to cash a check for $10. In checking with the Mountain View bank, on which the check was drawn, bank officials alleged Harris' account was overdrawn, police asserted.

Police said the young man had been cashing checks for sums up to $100, and added that though Harris claims to have made a $950 deposit to his account last Friday, the bank denies it.

He was booked on a charge of possessing checks with intent to defraud.

Permit Okay For Hospital

Permits for a 53-bed convalescent hospital and a commercial stable in Colma were approved last week by the County Planning Commission.

The convalescent home, the application for which had been before the commission since February, is to be located on Annie Street south of Washington Street. When the application was first submitted, the commissioners told the applicant, Mrs. Kathleen LePage, that it was too big and institutional appearing for the area. She had the plans revised and they were accepted by the planners yesterday with little discussion.

The stable is to be located on a five-acre parcel at Moltke and Orange Streets. The stable, in the midst of a commercial flower growing area, is to be 300 feet from the nearest residence. The applicant was George Holland.

Two Outboard Motors Taken

Burglars entered the locked San Bruno garage of tire shop owner Arthur L. Henderson's home at 1651 Greenwood Way and removed two outboard motors, a fishing tackle box and a power lawnmower.

The loss was valued at $1,002 by the owner, according to San Bruno police.

THIS IS the residence proposed for use as a new Damien House "drop-in center for youths" in South San Francisco. Sponsors of the project had planned to open the facility immediately, but City Planner Daniel Pass and other officials maintain a use permit must be issued before operations can begin. Rudie Tretten, chairman of the North County Steering Committee for Damien House, and other sponsors of the project appeared before the council to discuss the matter at a study session Wednesday. (Post Photo)

Damien House Question: Fate in S.S.F. Uncertain

By Don Grierson

Sponsors of a Damien House drop-in center for young people in South San Francisco presented their proposal to city councilmen at a study session last week, but the fate of the new facility remains uncertain.

At the close of an hour-long discussion, backers of the project were left with the choice of filing for a use permit for the operation, a move which would represent an exercise in futility if planning commissioners follow the recommendation of South San Francisco's city planner, Daniel Pass, or awaiting a ruling from the city attorney on whether or not the proposed use is covered under the city's zoning ordinance.

Pass, who delivered a scathing attack on the Damien House operation in San Mateo, is maintaining his original contention that the facility at 233 Willow Avenue in South San Francisco, in an "R-3" residential district, qualifies as a "clinic or guidance center," and the operators must therefore obtain a use permit prior to opening for business.

The planner said he inspected the organization's San Mateo facility and found conditions there "appalling."

"It has an unkept appearance, the lawns are not maintained, and the place is permeated by an aura of complete permissiveness," Pass said.

"This may be the goal of Damien House, but it is not the goal of sound city planning."

"If this use is allowed, we have heralded to the world that South San Francisco has no planning standards," Pass said.

"The facility abuts upon one of our most sensitive residential areas, and it does not meet our physical requirements in any way.

"I do not deal in clinics, social health or any disparity which may arise between the generations," the planner said in voicing his opposition to the project.

Rudie Tretten, chairman of the North County Steering Committee for Damien House, a number of staff residents from the San Mateo facility, Legal Aid Society Attorney Mike Silverstein, the Rev. Gilbert Viera of Aldergate Methodist Church, Dr. Burton White of the North County Mental Health Clinic and a number of South San Francisco residents spoke in favor of the project.

Police Chief John Fabbri was critical of the organization's "failure to enlist community support" before opening the Willow Avenue facility, but indicated approval of the Damien House goals.

Tretten explained that his committee had been seeking a suitable residence for the operation anywhere in the North County area, and had no foreknowledge that it would be located in South San Francisco.

"We had scheduled a public meeting July 2 and an open house July 13 before we ran into these difficulties over the use permit procedure," Tretten said.

Damien House spokesmen also stated that the planners' criticism of conditions at the San Mateo facility was "somewhat overstated," and that the "unkept appearance" there results from a lack of adequate funds for painting the building and maintaining the grounds.

Tretten said no decision has been reached on the organization's next move in attempting to establish the South San Francisco facility.

Under the city's zoning ordinance, as use permit is required for certain types of business uses in an "R-3" district, though there are no restrictions on residential use.

The Damien House sponsors noted Wednesday that operations such as the one they propose on Willow Avenue are not covered specifically by the ordinance.

A 'Value' In House Is Noted

By TOM POWELL

"I've never referred anybody there who considered it a waste of time or a stupid experience."

Officer Richard Bona, of the San Mateo Police Bureau of community relations, spoke to The Post Wednesday about San Mateo's Damien House, a drop-in center for young people that was criticized last week by a South San Francisco planner for its unkempt appearance and permissive atmosphere. A Damien House is planned for S.S.F.

"I can't speak for the department," Bona said, "but I think Damien House has a tremendous amount of value. I go there frequently and find it has one of the most friendly atmospheres I have ever encountered. They have an open door policy — the law enforcement officials are welcome to come in any time without prior notification.

"They have called me many times about runaway juveniles — even juveniles from out of state — and we have worked together in getting them back with their families."

At 218 Tilton Avenue, Damien House was founded a year ago by its present director, Bob Wright. It is designed to help anyone with a problem — and may have as many as 150 or 200 young people a day working in the house or talking to residents.

"This is not a bastion for anti-social kids," says Wright. "We're trying to provide a problem-solving atmosphere — a place conducive to the development of healthy personal growth and individual expression."

Although (largely) occupied by the so-called "hippie types," Damien House enjoys good relations with the police department, community agencies and even its neighbors in an older, established residential area of San Mateo.

The staff at the house is proud of its work. They say most of the people there are seriously trying to work out their problems.

"This is the finest generation in history," Wright declared. "But they're rejecting the traditional institutions. Every time the older generation sees the unhappiness in youth, they build a recreation center. When we build these recreation centers, do we ask the kids what they want? No. We provide them with basketballs. Keep them busy.

"That's the problem with our Black brothers in the ghetto. We keep shoving basketballs down their throats. We occupy them from the neck down. These kids want to use their heads."

The rules at Damien House are simple: no drugs or alcohol; no ultimate expression of love; and no physical violence or threat of physical violence.

However, says Wright, someone under the influence of drugs may come in asking for help.

"We'll take him to the beach or someplace and walk him down. Then, when his head is in a good place, we'll say, 'go home and come back straight and we'll talk'."

The underlying philosophy of Damien House seeks to help people learn to cope with their environment — to help them learn how to change their surroundings.

"We say, 'if you don't like the way something looks, don't gripe about it, change it,'" Wright declared.

And the aged, two-story structure reflects the imagination of the people who have come there. Posters, lights, furniture and even entire rooms have been adjusted to the liking of Damien House drop-ins. Old furniture lay in the back yard, waiting to be taken to the dump — drop-ins had brought in better.

A carefully cared-for rose garden grows alongside the house — an unending source for a gift of flowers for visitors.

But perhaps the most important aspect of the house is the counseling and group encounter available to anyone who needs help. Groups composed of 10 to 15 people gather on a weekly basis to exchange ideas about their own problems. They may act out situations in an attempt to identify feelings and attitudes and understand their roles in different social situations. Some 20 groups are currently meeting.

In addition, individual counseling is available 24 hours a day from residents of the house. Professional psychiatric help is available outside the house in more serious cases.

Wright admits there have been difficulties during Damien House's first year of operation. Some of the youngsters are potential troublemakers, bent on spoiling a good thing. But Wright, a 31-year-old former professional football player, says he and his staff have been able to handle it.

Golf Club Repeats Its Denial of Sale

South San Francisco Mayor Frank Bertucelli unveiled the "potential $100 million development" of the California Golf Club property as promised last night, but the dramatic impact of the occasion was lessened somewhat by an unequivocal denial by the club owners that they have any intention of selling the property .

Preston Butcher, representing Lincoln Properties Co., a Menlo Park development firm, revealed that his organization is in the process of developing a "total environment" type residential complex on the golf club lands.

Butcher conceded that the study is being conducted without the knowledge or assistance of the golf club owners, and said his firm performs such studies on an almost routine basis.

However, he stated the company is prepared to proceed with acquisition and development of the property within one year, should the owners decide to sell.

Butcher a l s o assured Mayor Bertucelli and council members the developers would pay a "fair portion of the cost of developing Westborough Boulevard and the Colma Creek drainage facilities to be built in connection with the road project" should the development be undertaken.

Prior to Butcher's appearance last night, the golf club president, Jack Amann, notified the mayor and council in a letter dated June 19 that the property is not for sale.

In fact, according to Amann's letter, the club's articles of incorporation have been revised to require a three-fourths majority vote of the entire membership to approve a sale of the property.

"I would ask that your future press releases make clear that the study is not being asked for by the club, and that the club property is not available for sale, regardless of the outcome of your study," the letter stated.

Mayor Bertucelli said the golf club's position on selling the property "pleases the city very much, since we have always maintained the area should be retained as open space."

He also said he feels that an access road from the proposed new Westborough Boulevard Extension to the golf club property indicated in the road plans "can now be deleted, since we are assured the property will not be developed."

Bertucelli said the city would save "$100,000 to $150,000" by deleting the access road.

The access road has been one of several areas of disagreement between city and county officials in their efforts to arrive at a mutually satisfactory arrangement for construction of the $3.5 million road project.

Bertucelli recommended last month that the city delay signing an agreement with the county on the road project because of the "pending development" of the golf club property.

Last night, he said the city is still not ready to sign the road agreement, even though the residential development now appears unlikely.

"We have never seen the final plans for the road and the drainage system," the mayor said, "and I for one do not intend to approve the project until we receive those plans."

The joint city-county road project has been delayed numerous times during the past two years, and county officials have threatened to drop the project unless agreement is reached soon.

Two members of the South San Francisco council, Frank Mammini and Andrew Rocca, have repeatedly urged speedy approval of the project.

"With 1,000 new homes slated for construction in Westborough during the next year, we are going to face a tremendous traffic problem in the area of Royal and Avalon Drive if this road is not completed," Mammini said Wednesday.

"There will also be a tremendous problem with drainage," he said.

Pair Accused in Baseball Bat Assault

An alert Daly City police patrolmen arrested two young Negroes early Friday only minutes after two youths allegedly struck a 34-year-old woman motel clerk over the head with a miniature baseball bat, but fled when she failed to collapse.

Arrested on armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon charges were Frederick Russell, 18, 1030 Ingerson Way, San Francisco, and Lloyd R. Williams, Jr., 17, 11 Cameron, San Francisco.

A Daly City police spokesman identified the victim as Jean Gauthier, 34, night clerk at the Vin Mar Motel, 3255 Geneva Avenue, Daly City.

According to the police, the two suspects entered the motel office at 12:35 a.m. and asked the clerk for a room. As they were signing the register, she noticed that a club of some type was protruding from one of the youth's belt. So she turned around and locked the cash box.

However, when she turned back to face the pair, the clerk assertedly was confronted by one who held a 12-inch butcher knife in one hand and a 16-inch miniature baseball bat in the other.

She told investigating officers she suddenly was hit over the head with the bat, which broke in two. Though the clerk was stunned, she did not fall.

The pair then panicked, authorities said, and ran from the office.

Patrolman Tom Reese, cruising in the area spotted two young men r u n n i n g. When Reese stopped them, he was told they were running away from someone who had attacked them.

He began checking them out. In the meantime, his squad car radio carried a report of a robbery attempt at the Vin Mar.

Reese returned, with the suspects, to the motel, where the clerk identified the two as responsible, police said.

A search of the area turned up the knife and the handle of the broken bat beneath a nearby car.

Space-Reading Clubs Being Formed in DC

"Conquer space with books."

This is the invitation to all children from their public library.

Samuel Chandler, city librarian, said that space-reading clubs would be formed in each branch of the Daly City Public Library. The branches are at 275 Southgate, 6351 Mission and 129 Acacia.

To join, a child must go into the library, choose a book, take it home and read it, return it, sign the space log, and then — select a prize!

There will be no limit on the number of times a child may sign the space log and receive the reward.

Part of the program will be sponsored by the Friends of the Daly City Library. This organization will keep tabs on the number of children who read books and join the club, and those who read the most books.

The Friends of the Library is planning a grand finale at the end of summer.

Mrs. Dorothy George, president, urged all children in Daly City to take part.

"It will make reading fun for all summer long," she said.

DEBORAH JEAN REYNOLDS is a girl with diverse interests — she enjoys crocheting an afghan or unraveling a knotty math problem, donning the uniform of a "candy striper" to help in a hospital or wearing a rooters cap and cheering Terra Nova's baseball team on to a league championship. She is a girl of many facets, and a single goal, to be a pediatrician!

Deborah is one of the three young ladies selected by the senior class counselor at Terra Nova to represent her graduating class in the summer series of high school graduate profiles that have been appearing in this column. The girls named are always outstanding in their scholarship and their contribution to their schools and communities and Debbie is no exception. A four-year member of the California Scholarship Federation, she followed a solid pre-college curriculum and still found time to work as a hospital volunteer and take part in school government and social activities.

Beginning in her freshman year, Deborah was active in student government, that semester she was elected class secretary, she joined the Girls Athletic League and served on the concession committee. The following year she did not hold a student office but she added the science club to her list of activities. During her junior year she found time to volunteer to tutor three students, chair the class fund raising committee, serve on the Junior Prom committee and hold the job of treasurer for the C.S.F. During her senior year she was class treasurer, tutor for four students, chairman of the fund raising committee and be member of several ticket sales committees. Along the way she found time to take part in the school's social activities and still maintain a grade point average which would cause her to be named salutatorian of her class, the outstanding chemistry student of the year, and win her admission to the university of he choice, University of Sanata Clara.

Deborah is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reynolds of Navarre Drive in Pacifica and she has three sisters, Gerrilyn, Beverly and Pamela, and one brother, Charles. Born in San Francisco she came to Pacifica when she was six years old and attended Le Conte, Linda Mar and Pedro Valley Elementary schools before beginning high school at Terra Nova.

Because of her native interest in science and math she decided that she would enter some branch of scientific study. Her patience and delight in children eventually lead her to settle upon a medical career dealing with children.

Developing her skills in mathematics was especially enjoyable for her because of her admiration for Louis Boccaleoni, who taught her geometry, advanced algebra, math analysis and trigonometry.

"He's really a great person as well as a great teacher. He has the ability to get along well with kids. He made class interesting and at the same time was able to give us a tremendous math background for college," Deborah commented.

High school was a valuable experience for Deborah in another way, by her own evaluation, it was there that she learned to keep an open mind.

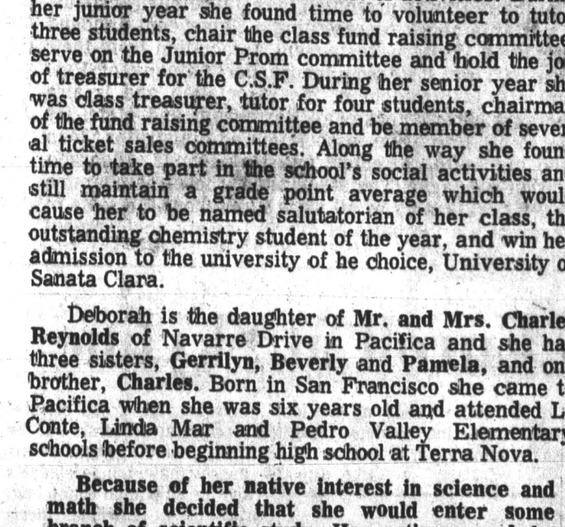
"Up until high school I had been stubborn in my way of thinking — almost to the po nt of being close minded. In my sophomore year I had a teacher who demanded that you back up all your statements and opinions with facts. After being 'shot down' a couple of times I learned to eavluate my ideas. This really helped me to be more open minded. I learned to appreciate other's thoughts and to incorporate some of them in my own. I think this may have been instrumental in improving my relationships with my friends. I no longer argue or debate from an emotional viewpoint (or only rarely). 'Keeping my cool' has kept me from saying something in an argument that I would be sorry for later. Up until this time (my sophomore year), this was one of my biggest problems," Deborah explained.

This summer Deborah will be working on two problems. To get off to a flying start in her academic studies, she is attending night school at the College of San Mateo, taking a course in physics so that she will have that subject finished before she even begins her freshman year at Santa Clara. The other problem will be that of identity.

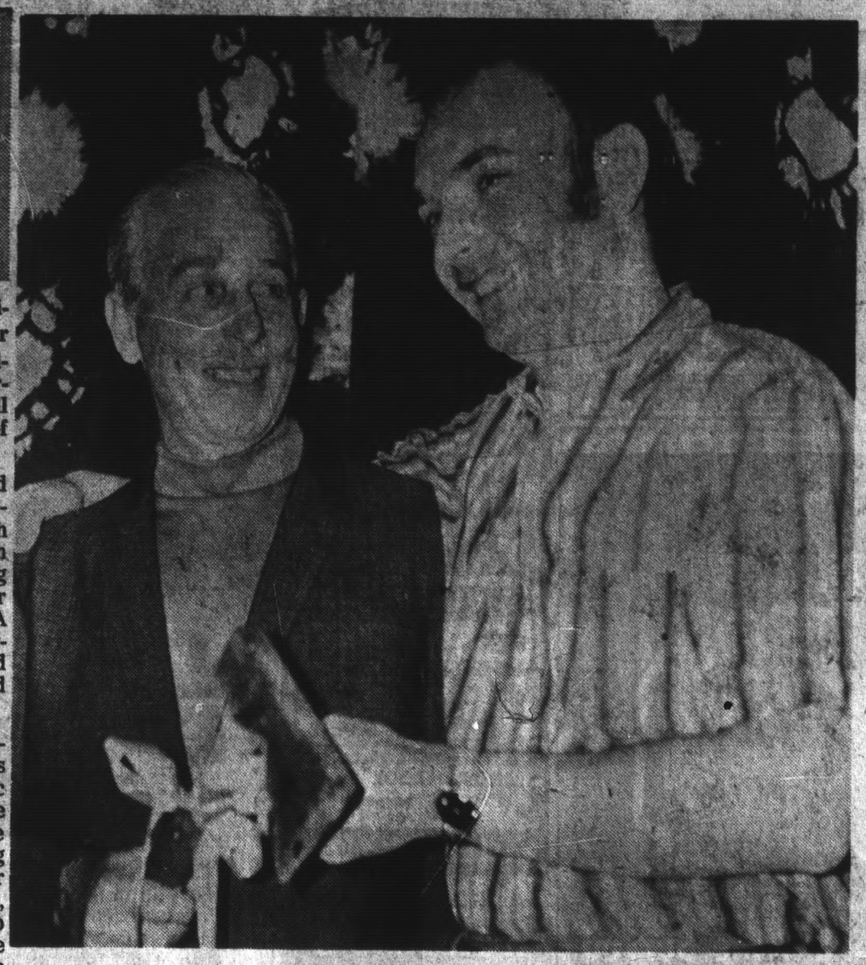
The most difficult problem facing teenagers today is the same one which has always been a problem, that is "trying to find your identity."

"It is difficult and often frightening for the teenager to try to figure where he fits in. He is particularly uncertain about his future, what he wants out of life and whether he will be able to measure up to his own and other's expectations of him. He is frequently guided by "peer pressure," something he does not particularly like but he knows he must accept in order to be 'in'. This creates conflicts and uncertainties within the person.

"Being a teenager is the greatest experience there is. It has its triumphs but never is it easy," Deborah concluded.



South San Francisco will be the first home of Mr. and Mrs. Hobby D. Terranova who were married a week ago today at Our Lady of Angels Catholic Church in Burlingame. The bride, the former Janet Avitabile, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold C. Avitabile of Burlingame, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Terranova of Pacifica. (Bob Lynds Photo)



INCOMING president Gill West receives gavel, in form of a well-used hatchet, from outgoing Pacifica Spindrift Players president Aubrey Lumley. Ceremonies were Saturday night in Vallemar section.

THE SPINDRIFT unit awarded a certificate to Grace Rainsford Ryan, for her years of service to the Players. Mrs. Ryan has served in a variety of positions in the little theatre group during her 13 years' membership. Outgoing president Aubrey Lumley made the presentation. (Post Photos)

Spindrift Players' Officers Are Installed at Pacifica

The Pacifica Spindrift players held its annual "passing out" ceremony honoring the retiring executive board for the 1968-69 season and installed its new officers for the 1969-70 year.

Outgoing President Aubrey Lumley installed the new officers who include:

Gil West, president; Dennis Krier, vice president; Bernice Olson, secretary, and Darrel Grer, treasurer. Other mmbers to govern on the executive board includes three members-at-large: Arnold Turner, Virginia Johnson, and Lumley.

A no-host cocktail hour and a Lasagna dinner hosted by the new board preceeded the installation. Setting of the festivities was the Luther Sparker and Robert Southworth residence in Vallemar.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of the annual report by outgoing president Lumley where it was pointed out that this past season of four plays was very successful with over 2000 persons seeing the productions; a scholarship was presented to a graduating senior of each high school in Pacifica; and new lighting equipment was added.

Lumley also thanked his outgoing board members by presenting each with a momento of their term of office, silver medalions imprinted with "P.S.P. exec. Board, '68-'69."

Also included in the evening was the honoring of the outstanding member of the year. This was the first time such an award was given by the board of directors, and it was presented to Grace Ryan, longtime member for her "unselfish work and support in furthering community theater in Pacifica."

Mrs. Ryan is a past member of the executive board and has been in charge of the hostess committee for several years.

The installation was the official kickoff of the membership drive for 1969-70. Plans are now in the making for an even bigger and better season. Directors and plays (four) are now being chosen. "TASTIEST MORSEL" of them all was presented to restaurateur Nick Gust recently in the form of a sizable check representing a 23 per cent dividend for every member of Preferred Western Restaurant Association from their workmen's compensation carrier, Eldorado Insurance Company of Palo Alto. Gust, second from left, is president of the association and is also mayor of Pacifica. Others at Nick's Rockaway Restaurant and Motel for the presentation were (l. to r.) Bob Kahn, association administrator, John MacArthur Jr., Eldorado marketing director, and Ray Prince, Eldorado Northern California Division manager. The association whose membership is composed of many score restaurants of all sizes throughout the state of California earned the dividend on the basis of over-all safety achievement during its last policy year.

4,000 to Enroll at Skyline

Skyline College plans to enroll 2,000 day students and 2,000 evening students for the fall 1969 semester, Rex Butler, Head of Office of Admissions and Registration, reported today.

"Already the college has received more than 1,000 applications with approximately 70 per cent freshmen and 30 per cent sophomore transfers," Butler declared.

He noted that the college will enroll twenty foreign students and to date has received more than 80 applications for admission. Eleven foreign students already have been admitted representing such areas of the globe as South America, Far East, Near East, Malaysia, Africa, and Europe.

Butler stated that the evening college registration will take place on the first class meeting and that tentative plans now are underway relating to this program.

Skyline College's orientation and counseling schedule will be in two-half day sessions. All students will take part in either the morning or afternoon sessions which will be held between August 18 through September 4.

The students will be involved in 50-minute group orientation and counseling sessions either in the morning or afternoon.

Following the group orientation program students will be meeting in small group sessions — approximately nine students — and for individual counseling. During these individual meetings the students will compelte the registration process.

Students planning to enroll at Skyline College can get information and applications by writing to the college: Office of Registration-Admissions, Skyline College, 3300 College Drive, San Bruno 94066.

Heritage Tree Book Will Be Published

One of the highlights of San Mateo's 1969 Jubilee Celebration will be the publication of a heavily illustrated book on San Mateo's Heritage Trees.

The 34-page soft-cover book is being jointly sponsored by the city government and the Diamond Jubilee Committee. It is a project initiated by the San Mateo Beautification Committee of the Park and Recration Commission and Department.

Mrs. Margaret Atkinson, a member of the Beautification Committee and well-known local artist who has aided in numerous civic projects, is in charge.

Mrs. Atkinson has produced a working copy of the book which is receiving warm approval of city officials.

The Heritage Tree book will be similar to that produced by the City of Palo Alto, though somewhat smaller than that of Santa Barbara.

Featured will be 75 of the city's oldest and finest Heritage Trees, explained Mrs. Atkinson, to symbolize the city's seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding. It will include a brief history of the city with pictures, the story of trees, their general benefit to man and why they are necessary. It will also touch on the Diamond Jubilee Celebrations and will include a map of San Mateo, its open spaces, pin-pointing the locations of the Heritage Trees which can be used as a guide.

There will be botanical name and common name listings of the trees, their description, age, habits, and ultimate age.

The book will be available by September 7, reports Mrs. Atkinson, officially to be designated San Mateo Heritage Tree Day.

The public may purchase it at the usual outlets, and at the city hall. Though no retail price has yet been set, it is tentatively earmarked at $1.50.

A total of 5,000 books will be printed in the first issue, enabling many interested local families as well as visitors to avail themselves of it. The book is expected to be of major value to school children.

Mrs. Atkinson also noted, "All nominations for Heritage Trees for later editions are welcome, and those interested in making note of them are requested to write to the Beautification Committee or Park and Recreation Department.

Day Seated As Supervisor

Gerald F. (Ged) Day of Belmont took his seat on the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors as representative from the Third District yesterday.

Day, who quit his position as vice mayor of Belmont and his job as an engineer and construction supervisor with Pacific Cement and Aggregates Company to accept the $14,376 county appointment, was sworn in by County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church.

The new supervisor made one of the shortest speeches on record — 17 words in all — after taking his seat.

"I feel very honored," he said, "to be serving with the Board of Supervisors of San Mateo County. Thank you."

Day, 41, was named by Governor Reagan to fill the post vacated by T. Louis Chess, who resigned at the end of May because of bad health. The Board of Supervisors, inpatient to get the fifth seat filled, petitioned Reagan two weeks ago to make an appointment.

"We have waited a long time for this," Chairman Robert St. Clair said yesterday in welcoming Day to the board.

Day, if he wants to keep the job, will have to run for election next year. He is certain to face stern opposition. San Mateo City Councilman John J. Murray, who wanted the gubernatorial appointment, has already announced that he will run.

Maita Says 'Not Guilty'

Phil Maita, owner of the Easy Street nightclub in San Mateo, has pleaded not guilty to six counts of allowing lewd acts to take place at his establishment.

Maita, 26, has been arrested four times in the past four weeks for using nearly nude waitresses at his club and for displaying allegedly obscene movies there as well.

Now in Print: The Ancestry of a Rug

Those rugs on your floors are the products of a long line of development. Their ancestors lined the floors of the caves of primitive man. It is interesting to note that the earliest existing rug is made of felt and comes from the 4th or 5th century B.C.

By historic times the carpets of the Near East had attained fame and magnificence. Ancient authors speak of the luxurious Babylonian carpets, and in the tomb of Cyrus, Alexander the Great found the gold funeral couch resting on carpets of very fine fabric.

One of the oldest rugs in existence is preserved in perpetual ice in the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad. It is six feet, six inches by six feet and of fairly fine knotting. In spite of its age it is a beautiful rug with fringe around the edges and the threads knotted as a modern pile rug. The central field has a quatrefoil pattern reminiscent of ancient Assyrian stone carvings.

A PICTURE of this ancient rug is found in Stanley Reed's book "Oriental Rugs and Carpets."

Here is a truly beautiful book with pictures of the most famous carpets in the world. One of these is the Ardebil Carpet that comes from the golden age of ancient Persia. It's a masterpiece with golds and reds and blacks and blues woven in an intricate pattern.

The rugs of Ancient Persia are classified by their presumed themes; so we find hunting carpets, garden carpets, medallion carpets, compartment carpets, vase carpets and animal carpets.

Reed writes that carpets of ancient Persia were brought to Venice during the Italian Renaisance and inspired countless European artists whose fame never dies.

Reed complains that in the twentieth century man has developed new methods of producing rugs but "the rugs of today while they are probably commercially successful, can with few exceptions be regarded as no more than copies."

HE WRITES that there is a famine for fine old goods in mint condition. Most of the fine rugs of the past are being placed in museums, but very few people know anything whatever of these treasures.

Too often, according to Reed, the floor of a house and the rug that covers it have been disregarded. While walls and their decorations have been preserved with great care, floors, and carpets have been allowed to wear out and have been discarded without care meanwhile, rug repairs are a dying race.

"WHAT THE AMERICAN FLAG Means to Me" was the recent Rotary Club essay contest topic in Daly City.

The two winners were Santa Lucia Cavallaro of the Fernando Rivera School and Adrienne Tracey of the Margaret Pauline Brown School. (See photo Page 13).

The winners' efforts are printed fully below:

Santa Lucia Cavallaro

Lately, the only thing the word "Youth" is associated with is revolt, violence, disrespect, etc. But people have to look further, find the "real" youth of today. Everyone under 30 isn't a draft card burner. Odd as it may seem there are people left who honor our flag. Most people realize that the flag means and stands for all the burdens our country has borne, all the fighting that was done, and is still done, to keep the dream of freedom a reality.

Although the colors of the flag (red, white, and blue) symbolize something, the true colors behind the flag are all colors: yellow, red, white, and black, to stand for the melting pot of races, creeds, and skins, that is America.

Everyone in America seeks the same things — respect, equality, freedom, and the right to run their lives as they choose. The Pilgrims sought religious freedoms, the revolutionaries sought an new life.

They all fulfilled their goals and were all content to live, as they were, but times change, and the old ways go out. What seemed to be all a person could want, for the old, is not enough for the new.

When youths try to change things to suit they wants, people put them down and call them dirty hippies, when, really, the kids who want the changes are clean cut kids who just want a few improvements. The people who cause the trouble are not looking for anything but trouble.

If I were a big leader in the govermnent, I would listen a little more to youth's demands, especially voting at 18. How can an 18 year old boy in Vietnam have respect for the flag of the country that ships him off to some far away place without even letting him a have a voice in government?

I realize that it's sort of a go to war or to jail situation, but people should understand that if 18 year olds are old enough to face death, they should be able to choose their own leaders.

Well, though I may have wandered off the subject a few times, I hope you'll see just what the American flag means to me. The dreams of all men; integrity, respect, freedom, equality, and above all, just being a member of a great country, that, though it has some laws and morals that are to be questioned, is still and forever will be, a leading nation among nations.

Adrienne Tracey

The American flag represents our country's land, its people, it's government, and it's ideals. The flag also represents the price men pay for freedom. An important duty of every citizen in the United States is knowing how to honor this country's flag in their daily actions.

The American flag's colors are all these for a reason. The red on our flag stands for courage. The white is the symbol of innocence and the blue is the color of vigilance and justice.

I love the coontry I live in because I have never known real hunger and I have never known the destruction of war.

From what I have been reading, what I have seen in films and on television, our country advances faster than any other country in the world. It has made great strides in science and in technology. Heart transplants and moon launchings are now common place.

This country has made steady growth under our leaders such as Nixon, Kennedy, Johnson, Eisenhower. They also have made this country a better place in which to live.

Martin Luther King, another outstanding American, had a dream. His dream was that one day all people were going to be one nation, one brotherhood, under one flag. I will try and help this dream come true. So should every other American.

In some places there is still hatred because of another person's color. People dislike one another because they're white, or black or red. But this is not what Martin Luther King tried to teach us. This is not what our flag means.

We can make our country an even greaterr power through understanding and cooperation. We must all do or part.

I love my country and our flag. I have been pledging to the flag everyday for about seven years.

The pledge has a very special meaning to me. I think saying the pledge is the accepted way for a person to state his loyalty and love for the United States and express the ideals for which our flag stands.

I wish no one fought anyone and that there weren't any wars. I wish there was peace all over the world. All of this could be possible if everyone would try and love all peoples. I want to grow up in a world where all men are brothers, one nation, indivisible, under God.

Third Time Out for Powder Puffer Caroline Schutt

By MICHELLE CARTER

While Poteet Canyon and Bitsy Beekman, of Steve Canyon comic strip fame and fantasy, were heading for San Diego for the start of the Powder Puff Derby, San Mateo County's own delegation also was preparing for the event.

Mrs. Caroline Schutt of Daly City flew to the southern California city in time for the aircraft impounding Friday.

Flying her third derby in a Beechcraft Bonanza S-35, she will take off July 4 in the number 17 position for Dulles International Airport in Washington, D.C.

This will be the twenty-third annual presentation of the derby, officially known as the All-Woman Transcontmental Air Race, and three days are allotted for the 2,515.46 statute mile flight.

The distaff pilots have the choice of taking a co-pilot or going it alone. Mrs. Schutt will make the trip solo this year as she did in 1965 and 1968. But last year she was not completely alone; her dog, a white Maltese, joined her in the cockpit.

"But the dog was a 'she' so everything was still legal."

Mrs. Schutt took up flying with a friend in 1927 when she was a student at the College of San Mateo. But there was no opportunity for her to pursue her interest until 1958 when she resumed flying with an Army flying club out of Crissy Army Air Field at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The only woman in the club, she earned the privilege of flying with them because of her job with the department of defense. She's now switched to a position as a supervisory statistical analyst for the Sixth Army at the Presidio and to a hangar at Oakland Airport for her plane.

Widowed a few months ago, Mrs. Schutt has been ill and away from the controls for some time. She began easing herself back into shape for the transcontinental flight by taking part in the Hayward to Las Vegas flight on May 16.

The derby is sponsored by the Ninety-Nines, a group of women pilots formed in 1929 by Amelia Earhart. Mrs. Schutt has been a member for five years and proudly sports the gold superimposed nines, symbolic of the group, on her "civilian" clothes at the Presidio.

"I would have joined the Ninety-Nines sooner, but I didn't even know about it. There weren't any women at all in the flying club I belonged to at Crissy."

Being the only woman in the club presented no unusual problems for Mrs. Schutt, and she contends there's nothing at all unusual about a woman at the controls . . . and there wasn't anything special about it in 1927, either.

The derby will begin with the seven-day impound period in San Diego which is celebrating its 200th anniversary this summer. All manner of activities are planned for the contestants, while their planes are being checked out for the flight.

When the planes actually take-off on July 4 they will be following a route over the following refueling or overnight stops: Las Vegas, St. George and Salt Lake City, Utah; Rock Springs and Cheyenne, Wyo.; Kearney, Neb.; St. Joseph, Mo.; Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Huntington, W. Va., and finally Dulles International where all planes must buzz the finish line by sunset July 7. Only Salt Lake City and Mt. Vernon are must touch-downs.

The race to Dulles Airport may be long, lonely and arduous for Mrs. Schutt, but the return trip will be leisurely. She will be joined on the flight back to Oakland by her sister and, perhaps, a trophy or two.

OUR LITTLE ITEM about the Daly City Motor Vehicle Department being jammed every day, and that examiners have been ordered to "rush 'em through" prompted a quick reply from an official of that facility. Seems the DMV has acquired a lot on Sullivan Avenue near the new Civic Center and will soon start construction of a 100,000 square foot facility, John Krieger informs. Presently the small offices on Southgate handle upwards of 2,000 persons per week. The new building will be able to handle the volume, Krieger predicts.

LOOK FOR AN agreement between Daly City and BARTD for construction of that terminus station on Knowles by mid-July. A team of traffic counters were spotted (and duly reported to us) working on the on-off ramps in the area last week.

CONGRATS DEPARTMENT — Daly City policeman Jewel Bacon, on the force less than a year, married Silvia Montle at the Stanford Chapel last weekend. And who said cops aren't loved and needed?

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER — Apologies to the fine traffic ticket writers we sniped at in our last effort at writing a column. Seems we asked why a few more tags couldn't be presented to those folks who park in yellow, green, white zones around a certain shopping center, immune to our laws.

As usual, our ignorance triumphed and we were told these folks are indeed immune from traffic tags. Parking in and around this particular shopping mecca is controlled NOT by the police but by the OWNER. And how he can legally control this parking situation is in doubt.

What bugs merchants are the nice people who live in nearby apartments and use the center's parking spaces as their own personal facility. And we must not forget the others who drive to the center, park their cars and catch a bus to work everyday. More on this later.

RETIREMENT TIME IS HERE — Daly City loses two good cops this week. Veteran officers Henry (Hank) Sundermann and James (Jim) Welch hang up their badges and billies around mid-July. Rumors that police sergeant John Kolbmann might leave the force. That would make three top cops.

FOR THE PAST THREE YEARS Carol Livengood and the Pacific Heights Association has hollered about the prison near San Bruno (San Francisco's Black Hole of Calcutta). Seems the residents of the area were more than a little concerned about conditions at the jail and the fact that escapes had increased. They feared for their very lives. Sympathetic officials laughed and pooh-poohed their concern.

Afterall, sheriff Matthew Carberry assured them, (and this writer), these unfortunate souls are no more than itinerant drunks, homosexuals and perhaps a scattering of non-support cases. Certainly not "hardcore criminals." Furthermore, Carberry flatly stated "I'm not running a hotel here."

That same slogan and explanation carried for three years — until three weeks ago when two of four inmates who fled the prison using an escape route right from a Mack Sennet flick, were found hiding under a murder victim's home in Pacifica. The pair have been charged with the murder of Christian Pedersen.

On the telly the other p.m. (and in the press) Carberry is quoted as saying he now has a maximum security element (hardcore criminals) in the prison and he needs more men, more money, more everything. Meanwhile, back in the Pacific Heights neighborhood, the residents are pointing out the fact that "we told ya so" and are demanding immediate action be taken to remedy the situation at the jail — security-wise. They are still concerned about their welfare.

Can't blame them a bit!

Redwoods of San Lorenzo Valley Part of 'See' Trip

AS YOU TRAVEL south from San Francisco, the solid swatch of urban development begins to thin out along the coast side below Pacifica. At a point opposite San Jose the wide forested valleys and mountains of the western peninsula embrace the delightful villages of Ben Lomond, Felton and Boulder Creek.

Here, too, are the tranquil and awesome redwood groves of two state parks that offer the visitor priceless shelter and that rival even the world-famed groves of Sequoia National Park and the northern coast in their beauty.

Along the lazy path which Highway 9 makes through the San Lorenzo Valley are all those things which smack of summer vacations long ago — outdoor dance pavilions, large swimming pools, golf courses whose bright green fairways are lined with tall pine and spruce and redwood. This scenic road to Santa Cruz reveals some concession to 1969, what with a few supermarkets and modern banks in evidence, but mostly it is a summery sort of place with cabins and campfires and fishing poles and woods that invite exploring.

APPROACHING the San Lorenzo Valley by way of Skyline Boulevard you turn left onto Highway 9. Six miles further you come to the northern access road to Big Basin State Park, the oldest park in the state system and considered the most beautiful by many who have visited all of them. Big Basin comprises 11,553 acres and its 260 campsites are scattered along some of the finest redwood groves in California.

There are 102 new campsites open this year and, except for a few major holidays like the Fourth of July, there are generally spaces available even on weekends.

Big Basin also has picnic areas, a campfire center, a natural history museum, a supply store and lodge. The California State Automobile Association advises that fishing is possible in some of the creeks in the park but that it's a four-mile hike one-way to get to the spots where the fish can be taken.

At the opposite end of the valley below Felton is Henry Cowell Redwoods State Park, a perfect place to spend the day hiking, swimming in the San Lorenzo River of fishing. A walk along the Redwood Loop Trail with the park naturalist pointing out the General Grant Tree, the Cathedral Group and other points of interest is a fine experience for all members of the family.

SWIMMERS WILL ALSO FIND a large natural swimming lagoon located in a park in Felton and north of town by way of the Zayante Road is Lock Lomond, a very beautiful lake that is open year around. It is popular for boating and trout fishing and boats may be rented at the lake.

Just out of Felton you can take a ride on the Roaring Camp and Big Trees Railroad which runs through the redwoods and passes many scenic and historic points of interest. The colorful old train allows passengers to get off at various points where they can picnic, lunch at the old Red Caboose Saloon or visit the Roaring Camp General Store which sells 1890ish things like stick candy and pot-bellied stoves. The trains run every hour during summer from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week.

This San Lorenzo Valley was once a busy lumbering region. Over 50 saw the shingle mills operated in and around Boulder Creek towards the end of the last century. The first power sawmill in California was built on Zayante Creek in 1842. The lumber produced near Boulder Creek was sent over a V-flume from a point about seven miles north of town to the lower end of Felton.

As you drive along Highway 9 you see resorts, motels and trailer courts both along the highway and along the San Lorenzo River from Boulder Creek towards Big Basin along Big Basin Way you'll see the beautiful fairways of the Boulder Creek Country Club golf course which is open to the public.

BEN LOMOND, as you might guess, derives its name and heritage from Scotland and the townspeople are happy to preserve and develop this tie with the old country. Weatherly's Castle, a stone structure modeled after a Scottish war lord's castle, is located a few feet from Highway 9 at the north end of Ben Lomond. It features unique interior furnishings and art objects and is open weekends and holidays from noon to 6 p.m.

The San Lorenzo Valley is close to the heavily-populated cities of the Bay Area yet it is still sheltered and provides a natural playground that rivals many more distant points.

How Much Chicken Meat in Hot Dog?

Hot dogs are a part of the American way of life. Hot dogs and ballgames — hot dogs and kids.

The lowly hot dog made headlines when the White House fed it to visiting royalty. Some 8.5 billion hot dogs were consumed last year alone in the United States. With such a market it is no wonder what the poultry industry and beef cattle industry have locked horns over the ingredients of the hot dog.

It all started several years ago when the chicken producers developed machinery which could strip the neck, back and wing meat cheaply off of the bones of a chicken. The natural market for this meat, which otherwise might have to remain unsold, was the popular hot dog and other processed meat

THE KEY ISSUE today is whether producers be allowed to put in as much as 25 per cent chicken meat and, if this were permitted, could the product still continue to be sold under the name "hot dog."

Under existing Agriculture regulations, meat can be sold in interstate commerce under the name of "hot dog," "weiners," or "bologna" as long as it consists of beef, pork, mutton, goatmeat, fat and no more than 3.5 per cent cereal or other filler.

The Agriculture Department says that if chicken meat is added, the hogs and similar processed meats will have to be labeled in big litters (not in fine print) "franks and chicken," "chicken and hot dogs" or some such name. In the past, it has been found that meat products labeled such as "franks and chicken' have had very poor consumer reception.

A member of the Broiler Council which represents farms producing 65 per cent of the nation's eating chicken, says that chicken, when prepared for use in hot dogs and other meats, is identical in taste, texture, nourishment and all around food value to the other meats that now make up the hot dog and therefore there should be no labeling barrier to block the consumer acceptance.

THE PROCEEDINGS could start other disputes before they are over. Up to the present time, the hearings have dealt specifically wit the chicken and fat content of the hog dog but there are rumors in the air that some consumer groups may try to challenge the right to use such products in hot dogs as mutton,

There Are Four Important Rules to Remember in Outdoor Fish Cookery

Thousands of people agree that food rarely tastes better than when properly cooked out-of-doors. The reason? Probably because the open air, the relaxed, congenial atmosphere, and the tantalizing aroma of outdoor cookery all combine to whet the appetite and sharpen the taste.

Fish and shellfish are no exception to this happy rule, and almost all varieties adapt readily to outdoor cooking and eating. Whether your equipment is a simple charcoal grill, an elaborate electric or gas grill, or a primitive campfire, the results can be equally successful and the eating equally good. The four important rules to remember for successful outdoor seafood cookery are:

1. Care in selecting and preparing the fish and shellfish;
2. Cooking the seafood until just flaky when tested with a fork. Over-cooking of tender, succulent fish and shellfish is apt to toughen and dry them;
3. Controlling the heat; and
4. Marinating, basting, or coating the fishery products to keep the juices in and dryness out.

HOW TO BUY: — Fish are marketed in various forms for different uses. Know these forms or "cuts" when you buy.

WHOLE — as the fish comes from the water. Before cooking, it must be eviscerated and scaled; usually the head, tail, and fins are also removed.

DRAWN — whole, eviscerated fish. Usually the head, tail, and fins removed.

DRESSED OR PAN-DRESSED — whole, eviscerated and scaled fish. Usually the head, tail, and fins are removed. Ready to use.

STEAKS — cross-section slices from large dressed fish. Ready to use.

FILLETS — sides of the fish, cut length-wise away from the backbone. Ready to use.

STICKS AND PORTIONS — pieces of fish cut from blocks of frozen fillet and having uniform sizes, ranging in weight from one to several ounces. Ready to use.

CANNED FISH — includes many varieties of both fish and shellfish. Ready to use.

When ordering fresh or frozen fish or shellfish, tell your dealer how you plan to serve it. If you wish the head, tail, and fins removed from the whole or drawn fish, or if you wish the fish cut into serving-size portions, ask your dealer to do it. He will also open oysters or clams ready for serving — or shuck them ready for cooking.

HOW MUCH TO BUY: The amount of fish to buy per serving varies with the recipe to be used, the size of the serving, and the amounts of bone in the fish. Count above 3 ounces of cooked, boneless fish as a serving — a little less for small children and a little more for adolescent boys and men. The following table can help you decide how much fish to buy per serving:

Whole	¾ pound
Dressed or pan-dressed	½ pound
Fillets or steaks	1-3 pound
Portions	1-3 pound
Sticks	¼ pound
Canned	1-6 pound

Fish may be purchased fresh, frozen, and canned.

OPERATING A GAS GRILL: To light the grill — raise the hood or uncover. Remove grid, if manufacturer recommends. Strike long style match or light a soda straw. Turn gas valve to "high" — follow manufacturer's instructions if grill has pilot light. Hold match at ignition point.

Leave valve on "high" to preheat, but do not lower hood. If burner is below food, preheat for 10 to 15 minutes. If burner is above food, preheat for one minute.

Before placing food on grid or rotisserie, adjust valve to proper setting. Experience and personal preference will help you learn best setting. With outdoor grills, allow for climate conditions.

Follow manufacturer's directions for cooking on grid and rotisserie and for grill cleaning.

OPERATING A CHARCOAL GRILL: If your grill is of the charcoal variety, here's how to start the fire:

Line the bottom of the fire bowl with heavy-duty aluminum foil for easier cleaning later. To prevent the grill from burning out, line the bottom of the firebox with a layer of small pebbles or vermiculite. This permits the fire to breathe, giving more heat from the coals. Make charcoal layer slightly wider all around than the food to be cooked on the grill.

Start the fire sufficiently in advance so you will have a good bed of coals when you start barbecuing. One method used, which takes about 45 minutes, is to stack briquets in pyramid, and soak lightly with any recommended charcoal lighting fluid. Let stand 1 minute, then light. Many commercial forms of lighter fluid, easily ignited mats, and other lighting aids are available. WARNING: AT ALL TIMES TAKE NECESSARY PRECAUTIONS WHEN LIGHTING THE FIRE. NEVER USE GASOLINE! When the surface is covered with a gray ash, spread the coals evenly and the fire is ready.

FOR SMOKY FLAVOR: Wood chips from apple, oak, maple, hickory, and cherry give smoke flavor to fish. Soak chips in water at least an hour before using, so they will give maximum smoke and not burn too rapidly. On a charcoal grill, add a few chips at a time to the charcoal while cooking. If chips flame up, add more wet chips. For a gas grill, scatter wet chips directly on the cermic briquets for added flavor, or — for a more subtle flavor — wrap them in perforated foil before placing them on the briquets.

REMEMBER: NEVER OVERCOOK FISH. Cook only until they flake easily when tested.

HAPPY OUTDOOR FISH COOKERY!

Festive Crab A Dramatic Experience

Guests welcome a change from the usual dinner party fare of roast beef, steak, or chicken. You'll provide them with a dramatic eating experience when you serve Festive Crab au Gratin. "Looks complicated," you say? Not so, if you sauce this crab meat - mushroom fantasy with one of the homemakers' favorite timesavers — condensed Cheddar cheese soup.

Remember when dishes like this started with a white sauce? You melted butter, stirred in flour and milk, then heated the mixture and stirred like mad to get a smooth sauce. Nowadays, condensed soup sauces come in cans . . . are always smooth, always perfectly seasoned. You can forget the measuring and stirring.

Along wtih individual servings of Festive Crab au Gratin, serve a green vegetable — shapely asparagus or broccoli spears. You'll probably want to add a salad. Break crisp Romaine lettuce leaves and toss with a mild garlic dressing.

Since your main dish is so easy, you'll have time to "fuss" with dessert. Try fresh fruit-stuffed crepes (thin egg pancakes). Make crepes the day before serving and refrigerate with layers of waxed paper between them. The day of your party, roll and stuff pancakes with a combination of fresh or frozen fruits. Heat crepes in a chafing dish or electric frypan. Just before serving, spoon on an easy sauce of canned lemon pudding thinned with a little milk.

FESTIVE CRAB AU GRATIN

- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms (about 4 ounces)
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- ¾ teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
- 1 tablespoon Worchestershire
- 2 cups flaked crab meat
- ¼ cup buttered bread crumbs

In saucepan, brown mushrooms and cook onion, green pepper, and mustard in butter until vegetables are tender. Stir in soup, Worcestershire, and crab. Divide among four individual baking dishes. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake at 400 degree F. for 15 minutes or until hot. Makes four servings.

Versatile Sauce

Dress up tonight's vegetable with a simple little sauce of chicken seasoned stock base (buy at the spice counter) dissolved in hot water, dry mild mustard, crumbled rosemary and chopped almonds. Especially nice over asparagus which is so plentiful now.

Different Main Dishes Add Zest to Mealtimes

Add Sausage To a Salad

Thin slices of spicy hard salami or chorizos (a Spanish sausage) add snappy sparkle to salads made of several kinds of greens or vegetables.

light supper, use a combination

When the salad is to serve as of ready-to-serve meats. In this case, create flavor contrasts with some mildly seasoned suasages and others which are hot and spicy.

If it's become "always the same old thing" on the table at your house, it's more than time for a change. The best way to avoid a mealtime rut is to try new ways with old foods or new combinations which may prove popular.

Any homemaker's life will acquire a new dimension in sparkle if she tries out some new recipes once or twice a month. Just an unexpected savory aroma can bring the family out of their pursuits long enough for them to inquire, "What's cooking?" How nice when mother can say, "It's a surprise! Wait 'til dinner."

Here are two suggestions for punctuating family meals with that surprise element. One uses bulk pork sausage meat turned into a tempting, upside-down pie, while the other provides a different kind of stew, a dish so ideal for cold weather.

An unusual combination of foods is used in the lamb-bean stew. Boneless lamb cubes, however, harmonize well with tomatoes, green pepper and kidney beans.

SAUSAGE UPSIDEDOWN PIE

1 pound fresh (bulk) pork sausage
2 tablespoons water
2 medium onions, sliced
1 can (10½ ounces) tomato soup
2 cups Biscuit Mix
½ to two-thirds cup milk

Shape sausage into patties and place in frying-pan. Add water, cover, and simmer 15 minutes. Remove cover and allow water to evaporate and sausage to brown. Place sausage in casserole. Brown onion rings in sausage drippings. Arrange onions on meat. Cover with tomato soup. Add enough milk to Biscuit Mix to make a soft dough. Roll to fit casserole, and place on top of meat mixture. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Turn out on platter and serve. 6 servings.

HOMEMADE BISCUIT MIX

8 cups sifted flour
¼ cup baking powder
4 teaspoons salt
1 cup lard for soft wheat or 1½ cups lard for hard hard wheat flour

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in lard until the mixture has a fine even crumb. Cover mix and store in refrigerator. This mix will keep at least a month in the refrigerator. Yield: 10 cups mix.

LAMB AND RED BEAN STEW

1½ pounds boneless lamb, cut in 1-inch cubes
¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 tablespoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 can (16 ounces) kidney beans
1 green pepper, diced

Flour lamb and brown in melted lard or drippings. Season. Add tomatoes, beans and green pepper. Cover and simmer 1½ hours, uncovered last 15 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

Thuringer Treat

This is the age for snacks. Make a tray of thuringer or other sausage chunks speared with wooden picks and topped with pickled onions. Cover with palastic wrapping, refrigerate and pass at TV or study time.

Meal-in-One Dish Great For Company

Does the description "meal-in-one-dish" turn you off rather than on? Unfortunately, too many recipes which ofier practicaly the whole dinner cooked together are rather frowsy-looking conglomerations with little to distinguish them except convenience in serving.

Italian Chicken and Broccoli, however, should change any misconceptions you and your family might have about such recipes. Matter of fact, you'd serve this classy chicken dish to company without any hesitation at all!

Start the recipe by sauteeing split and boned chicken breasts Many butchers will do the boning for you but, if not, the process doesn't take long at home. All you need is a small, sharp, thin knife and a bit of patience.

Simmer the browned chicken in canned tomato sauce with cheese and a package of Italian salad dressing mix. These two convenience products make for an Italian sauce that has the taste and aroma of one your Italian grandmother might have staked her culinary reputation on. Tomato sauce with cheese has been ingeniously compounded from vine ripened tomatoes, mellow Romano cheese and Italian herbs and spices.

Add some broccoli, too, then serve the chicken and broccoli on a bed of noodles. We show the chicken served in individual casseroles but it would look equally effective on a platter. (Incidentally, the red sauce, green broccoli and creamy-white noodles all reflect Italian flag colors—your youngsters will get a kick out of that!)

Serve with Italian bread, if you wish, and fruit salad. Dessert isn't really necessary unless you want to serve spumoni ice cream.

ITALIAN CHICKEN AND BROCCOLI

3 chicken breasts, skinned, split and boned
1 envelope Italian salad dressing mix
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup buttery flavor oil or pure vegetable oil
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce with cheese
1 cup water
1 package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli spears, partially thawed
1 package (8 ounces) egg noodle bows (or other fancy noodles)

Coat a chicken with mixture of salad dressing mix and cornstarch; reserve any extra coating mxiture. In skillet over medium heat lightly brown chicken in oil; stir in reserved coating mixture, tomato sauce with cheese and water. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer, covered, 35 minutes. Cut broccoli in large pieces and add; simmer, covered, 20 minutes more, or until broccoli is tender. Meanwhile, cook noodles according to package directions; drain. Spoon noodles into individual serving dishes or ramekins or onto a serving platter; arrange chicken, broccoli and sauce on top. Makes six servings.

Bengal Curry For Leftover Roast Lamb

When there's a goodly amount of roast lamb left over, you can use it in a curried dish.

Bengal Curry Rice
Chutney Toasted Almonds
Green Beans Salad Bowl
Lemon Sherbet with Creme de Menthe

BENGAL CURRY

2ablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup finely diced onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons curry powder
2½ cups fat-free chicken broth
3 tablespoons instant flour
1-3 cup flaked coconut
1-3 cup (scant) tomato paste
¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce
4 cu spcubed (¾ inch) leftover roast lamb

In a medium saucepan in the hot butter mix together the onion, garlic, cinnamon, paprika and curry; add ½ cup of the broth; summer until liquid has almost evaporated and mixture is like a thick paste — about 15 minutes. Gradually stir the remaining 2 cups broth into the flour; add to onion mixture with coconut, tomato paste and tabasco. Over moderate heat cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add lamb and salt to taste; reheat. Serve over rice accompanied by chutney and toasted slivered blanched almonds; reheat. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cook With Plentiful Fruits and Berries

Good morning, good cooks.

Strawberry: n. A vine with juicy, red fruit for which it is widely cultivated.

This definition from Mr. Webster's best is for anyone who was wondering what a strawberry is and wants to be informed.

The red, juicy berries are certainly delicious and plentiful now and Mrs. Clara Mack who lives in Daly City has written to ask for a recipe for a strawberry pie using gelatin as a part of the filling.

There is a delightful recipe booklet called "Joys of Jell-O" and therein I found not one, but two such recipes.

FRUIT PIE UNLIMITED
1 package gelatin
2 tablespoons sugar (optional)
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold water
1½ cups strawberries, halved
One baked 8-inch pie shell

Dissolve the package gelatin and the two tablespoons sugar in the one cup boiling water. Stir in the cup cold water. Chill until very thick. Then fold in the one and one-half cups strawberries. Pour into the cooled pie shell. Chill until firm.

Garnish with whipped cream or sour cream or a whipped topping.

FROSTY STRAWBERRY PIE
1 package strawberry gelatin
1¼ cups boiling water
1 pint vanilla or strawberry ice cream
1 to 1½ cups sliced or halved strawberries
One baked 8 or 9-inch pastry shell, cooled

Dissolve the gelatin in the one and one-fourth cups boiling water. Gradually add the pint of ice cream, stirring until melted. Then chill until thickened, but not set — 15 to 25 minutes. Fold in the one and one-half cups strawberries. Pour into pastry shell. Chill until firm — 20 to 30 minutes. Garnish with whipped cream or prepared whipped topping.

NOTE: To hasten setting, decrease boiling water to 1 cup. But if pie is to be chilled 3 to 4 hours, use 1½ cups boiling water. If pie is to be chilled overnight, use one and two-thirds cups boiling water.

Since we are thinking about ways to serve strawberries today let me add this delicious pie. It is most impressive to serve with the whole strawberries coated in as shiny glaze of currant jelly.

STRAWBERRY CHEESE PIE
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
3 tablespoons evaporated milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar
2 boxes strawberries
1 cup red currant jelly
1 tablespoon cherry liquer, optional
Baked 9-inch pastry shell

Have the eight ounces of cream cheese at room temperature. In a medium mixing bowl beat the cream cheese with the three tablespoons evaporated milk, two teaspoons lemon juice and the tablespoon sugar. Spread in the bottom of the pie shell and chill.

Wash, remove stems and dry the strawberries. (I put the berries on paper towels and patted them dry with paper towels.) Arrange the strawberries over the cheese filling, stem ends down. Return to the refrigerator while you make the glaze.

Melt the one cup jelly over low heat, stirring as it melts. Stir in the tablespoon liquer. (The liquer adds an interesting taste to the pie, but isn't necessary for a tasty pie.) Allow the jelly to cool until warm and spoon it over the strawberries. Chill for about 6 hours and serve.

A CAKE THAT contains strawberries, angel food cake, gelatin and whipped cream sounds interesting, doesn't it? Tastes mighty interesting, too. And as an added bonus can be made ahead and waits patiently in the refrigerator until you are ready to serve.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT
2 packages strawberry gelatin
2½ cups hot water
2 packages frozen strawberries
1 large angel food cake
2 cups whipped cream.

Dissolve the two packages strawberry gelatin in the two and one-half cups hot water and refrigerate until the mixture is slightly set. Add the two packages strawberries, beat lightly, very lightly indeed, just enough to break up the strawberries. Fold in the two cups whipped cream.

While the gelatin is setting break the angel food cake into small pieces about the size of large marbles. Tear the cake with forks so it will retain its lightness. Pour the combined gelatin, strawberries and whipped cream over the broken cake. Mix with a light hand and pour into a large, oblong pan and refrigerate overnight.

Utility Tax To Be Levied In San Mateo

San Mateo City Manager Arthur B. Sullivan and his staff were busy Monday pulling the last buit of the rabbit out the hat following City Council instructions to cut the projected 1969-70 tax increase down to about six or seven cents.

The Council wound up a day-long budget study session on Saturday by 5 p.m. During the several hours of hard work they managed to "find" $988,100 in added revenue and had cut about $61,000 in spending.

It is anticipated that the present 91.2-cent tax rate will go to 98.2 at the most, including employe raises. Initially, a 40-cent tax hike was threatened.

Biggest portion of the council's revenue "find" was $690,000 in new taxes. The council unanimously agreed to impose a 5 per cent utility tax levy on all utility bills for every user in the city.

This in effect shifts 21.8 cents from the property tax rate to the utility tax.

For the average homeowner who some said spends $50 a month on his telephone, P. G. & E. and water bills, this will mean $2.50 a month or $30 a year. Others, however, said the utility bills run closer to $30 a month, which would mean $1.50 a month or $15 a year.

The 21.8-cent tax shift would cost the owner of an average home, assessed at $7500, $16.35 per year on the property tax bill to finance the city's $10,000,000 budget.

Noting City Manager Arthur B. Sullivan is properly conservative in estimating the city's revenue for the coming year, Councilman John J. Murray took the lead in re-evaluating the city's anticipated revenue. Tre final total of increased income was $988,100.

Another sizeable change included the transferral of all monies paid to the Chamber of Commerce for its annual promotional contracts with the city to the hotel-motel tax fund. It is imposed on transient visitors to the city. The present four-cent levy will go up to five cents, the council decreed and will be used for chamber expenses, currently paid for out of the general fund. Councilman William Weber was absent.

Expenditure cuts included the unanimous decision to eliminate creation of another permanent office of executive director for the Human Relations Commission.

The $18,382 cost of a finance director this year was also cut out, to City Manager Sullivan's disappointment.

A request for a planning assistant was eliminated, but the council left $3,500 in the department budget for temporary assistance. Sullivan noted consultants cost more, but the council emphasized they do not become permanent employes.

The cigarette, sales tax revenues, racetrack income, license and permits (even the bicycle license), golf course, plus other revenue source estimates were increased from $5,000 to $35,000.

At one point during the deliberation, Councilman John F. Condon rubbed his colleagues the wrong way by commenting they were deluding themselves by believing that increasing revenue through added levy was the solution. He said, "You delude yourselves when you say the tax rate isn't going up because you whack them in another way. The whole answer to this thing lies in cutting the budget . . . The whole thing still comes out of the pockets of the people."

His colleagues also took umbrage at his use of the word "extravagant" though it wasn't caught by some listeners.

Councilman Murray commented budget decisions are . . . "predicated on one philosophy: What do the people in this city demand from the standpoint of services?"

Condon said, "I understand."

Councilman Archibald said, "Not when you start out by saying this is an exgravagant budget . . ."

Murray emphasized, "The fact is the property tax has not been rising . . . If there is 'fat' in the budget, it is our responsibility to get rid of it. Don't start out by saying I am deluding myself."

"Don't call this council extravagant!" exclaimed Councilman Archibald. "Don't use those kind of words . . . ."

"All right," said Condon, ". . . I just wonder about some of these things."

"You have some things to learn, John Condon," said Archibald. "So I have," agreed Condon.

Condon subsequently, in commenting on the area for revenue increase, queried the city's investment policy. It has from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 in revenue in banks during the year, and Condon stressed that some of it should be placed in five per cent earning time deposits.

A meeting is to be held with City Treasurer - Tax Collector Edward Pollock to see what added investments can be made. Condon also urged hiring one or two traffic officers to halt speeding and boost revenue, paying for their salaries in effect.

The council boosted the initial five per cent franchise for Cable-TV to 7.5 per cent, noting San Mateo with its 22,000 homes represents a "plum." It expected to bring $1,000,000 in gross revenue to the operator, and about $210,000 net income. But since it will take two years after the franchise is granted to lay the necessary cables, the Council couldn't consider the income this year.

The Council also urged City Manager Sullivan to speed renegotiation of the sewage service contract with Hillsborough. Possibility of leasing a three-acre unused corner of the municipal golf course was discussed and is expected to be negotiated this year. The county will also be asked to consider locating a franchised boat dealer at Coyote Point Yacht harbor with resultant revenue.

Offered Ride, Girl Jumps From Auto

A Redwood City girl was injured Sunday night when she leaped from the car of a man who had offered her a ride home.

The driver was arrested eight minutes later after his sedan collided with another auto a mile away.

Redwood City police said the victim, Mary Ann Fuentes, 15, was walking on Delaware Street toward her home when the suspect, John T. Peterson, 25, of Palo Alto, offered her a ride. She accepted and got into his small foreign-made sedan.

Miss Fuentes told police later that when the car got to her home, Peterson refused to stop. She said she pushed on the brake pedal with her foot and, when the car slowed, jumped out. Peterson speeded up just at that instant, Miss Fuentes told police, causing her to sprawl on the pavement.

The victim reported the incident and police were starting to look for Peterson when his car colided with another auto at Alameda de las Pulgas and Nassau Drive. The other driver, Todd D. Barber, 27, a truck driver of 2121 Maryland Street, Redwood City, told highway patrolmen that Peterson pulled out from a stop sign into the path of his car just as he was passing.

Witnesses said Peterson attempted to drive away but could not because his auto was too badly wrecked.

Peterson was booked at county jail on felony charges of hit-run and drunken driving.

Miss Fuentes was treated at Sequoia Hospital for a cut on the back of her head, and foot and arm injuries.

½ cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 large eggs, separated
½ cup sugar

Chocolate Peppermint Filling, see below

Turn flour, cornstarch and salt into a sifter; set aside. Gradually sift and fold in flour mixture. Drop by level teaspoonsful, 2 inches apart, onto greased cookie sheets. Store in tightly covered tin box until ready to fill; then spread half the cookies (2 dozen) with the Chocolate Peppermint Filling, sandwich together with the remaining cookies. Makes 2 dozen cookie sandwiches. After filling cookies do not store tightly covered or they will soften.

CHICKEN BREASTS WITH PINEAPPLE

1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 chicken breasts, halved and skinned
1 tablespoon butter
1 can (8¼ ounces) pineapple slices
½ to 1 teaspoon minced fresh ginger, if available

On wax paper stir together the flour, salt and nutmeg; dip chicken in mixture, lightly coating both sides. In a 10-inch skillet heat the butter; add chicken and cook gently, turning as necessary, until pale golden color and white through — about 20 minutes. Remove chicken and keep warm in a low oven. To skillet add pineapple (including syrup) and, if used, the ginger; over high heat boil, turning pineapple once, until syrup is reduced by about one-half — about 5 minutes. Spoon the glaze over the chicken and garnish with pineapple slices. Makes 2 large servings.

Spreads in Refrigerator For Snacks, Entertaining

Spring and summer are good times to get acquainted with the vast variety of ready-to-serve meats, "cold cuts" or sausages, whichever you call them.

These convenient meats make wonderful spreads to keep on hand in the refrigerator. Let the family use them for nibbling with crackers or potato and corn chips. Have them on hand if unexpected guests drop in, advises a home economist with the National Livestock and Meat Board.

Honey loaf is a mildly flavored, ready-to-serve meat which may be new to you. It combines with spicy chutney and spreads easily when mixed with the cream cheese. Cotto salami, on the other hand, is sharper in flavor so it contrasts well with canned, mashed, baked beans. Luncheon loaf acquires texture interest from green pepper, cucumber and almonds. For a dip combine summer sausage and avocado.

SAUSAGE-CHUTNEY SPREAD

8 ounces honey loaf, finely chopped
4 ounces cream cheese, softened
¼ cup chutney, finely chopped

Mix cream cheese and chutney. Add finely chopped honey loaf and mix well. Chill before serving. Yield: one and one-third cups.

PIQUANT SAUSAGE SPREAD

8 ounces spiced luncheon loaf, finely chopped
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons peeled and finely chopped cucumber
2 tablespoons toasted, slivered almonds

SAUSAGE-GUACAMOLE DIP

8 ounces summer sausage, finely chopped
1 medium-size ripe avocado
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 drops hot sauce, if desired
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 medium-sized tomato, peeled and chopped

Cut avocado, lengthwise, in half and remove seed. Scoop out avocado. Mash avocado with lemon juice. Add Worcestershire sauce, hot sauce (if desired) and dry mustard. Mix well. A Bright-Tasting Hot Dish Will Revive the Dullest Appetite tion of these hurry-hurry, quick-quick menu ideas that are appealing even as temperatures climb and energies drain.

One of the surest ways to revive droopy appetites is with a bright tasting hot dish. Delicious, ebony-hued California ripe olive combination.

Westlake Bowl

The big news at Westlake this week is that Joda Collins has been named a bowling manager, bringing to this area a wealth of bowling experience. Now a resident of Westlake, he looks forward to meeting and assisting the many bowlers of this area.

A special award will be presented to Elsie Conley of the Ladies Invitational League who has bowled in the league for ten years without missing a single night. This includes both winter and summer league competition since the league started in the fall of 1959.

The Ladies Invitational League generated more publicity last week as Dot Alves rolled a tremendous 246 game, slightly over her 149 average to lead the league. Dot had a four game series of 762, an average of 190, to lead in that department also.

Carl Steigerwald provided the power in the Summer 660 Scratch League last Tuesday as he started with a 212 game, duplicated the score in his second game then jumped to a 234 in his final game for a big 658 series. Other high rollers were Phil Hargrove 224-604, Randy Wilcox 212-616 and Vince Ferrigno 224 and 605.

Bernice Pon was the leading lady in the Stonestown Merchants League shooting a 169 game and 451 series as Larry Minasian topped the men with 224-563.

The Driscoll family proved to be the big Blue Chip winners last week as more and more bowlers are taking part in the Friday, Saturday and Sunday Blue Chip squads. Bill Driscoll, Sr. took home 1,000 while son Bill, Jr. won 6,500 and mother Sue won 5,000 by striking after having her number drawn for the special raffle bonus shot.

In the Country Club Handicap League, Helmut Lehweider led the scoring for the week with a 226 game and 609 series.

Sophie Pierce missed a two-hundred game by only three pins but still managed to lead the Starlighters League with 197 and a four game series total of 665.

Dave Williams again led the Belle & Beau Mixed League with a 213 game and 601 series as Marilyn Mordus shot a 174 game and 494 series to lead the ladies.

B'nai B'rith Mixed League bowlers of the week were Barbara Steinberg with a 199 game and 488 series and Sy Hipschman with 216 and 516.

Barry Langberg and Bert Heineman were the week's leaders in the Wednesday night Skyline Trio League. Barry shot a 235 game and 640 series while Bert posted a 605 series on a high game of 221.

Pat Howse led the ladies in the Ball and Chain Mixed Fives League by shooting a big 196 game on her way to a 498 series while Dave Campbell topped the men with 206 and 575.

Leading the West Portal Merchants League for the week were Dolly Appelgate with a 189 game and 505 series and Ralph Cordero who rolled a big 225 game and 585 series.

Nan Watts with a 155 game and 446 series and Bob Monlatt with 185 and 457 were high for the week in the Fireman's Fund Insurance League.

A welcome visitor to Westlake last week was Caroline Rickenbacher, recently selected as Miss Daly City who came in to be fitted for the bowling ball she was awarded as one of the many prizes for being selected for the title. Pro shop manger Steve Ziokovich was observed giving her extra special attention.

JODA COLLINS

Manager Is Named In Pacifica

Westlake Bowl owner Johnny Swanson has announced the hiring of Joda Collins as bowling manager replacing Jim Grealish who has resigned.

Collins comes to Westlake with a wealth of bowling experience in the northern California area. His latest position was that of bowling manager of Pacific Avenue Bowl in Stockton. He is a graduate of the AMF Management School.

Prior to entering the bowling business as part owner of the College Lanes, Turlock, he spent 18 years in the dairy business including ownership of a Foremost distributorship in the Oakdale area.

Collins and his wife Retha have now settled in the Westlake area. A 27-year-old son lives in Riverbank, having spent four years in the U.S. Navy, while another son is presently serving in the Air Force. Their youngest son expects to enter the service next month.

Collins said he looks forward to meeting all bowlers of the area and assisting in providing instruction and information for better averages and more enjovment.

He plans some program which will be new to this area.

Included are special programs for boys and girls in the 16 to 20 year age bracket.

Cypress Hills Takes Entries

Entries are now being taken for the third annual Cypress Hills Junior Golf Championships, to be held July 22 and 23 at the Colma golf course.

OLYMPIA SCHOOL
By MIKE CIARDELLA

Olympia School opened the 1969 Summer Program with a strikeout tournament. Three teams were entered in this tournament. The Indians, led by the fine pitching and hitting of Gary Stipanich, defeated the Mustangs 12-3 for the championship. The Mustangs were led by the home-run hitting of Tom McLaughlin. McLaughlin and Mark Racette tied for most home runs each hitting 14. Racette, who played for the Eagles, did an outstanding job for his team. The leading pitcher in the tournament was Matt Tonkovich of the Mustangs, who had a 2-0 record and a fine 2.08 earned run average. Cary Stipanich also pitched well in the tournament winning 4 and losing 2. The tournament ran from June 16-20. On June 27 a scavenger hunt was held at Olympia. Results will be given at a later date. Children who have participated actively in programs at Olympia are Joe O'Gorman, Lisa O'Connor, Mike Cummins, Tim Green, Steve Nelson, George McLaughlin and John Robbins.

WESTLAKE PARK
By BOB VERDUCCI

Westlake Park commenced its summer recreation program with an action-packed, fun-filled week. The two main events initiated by the participants were a thrilling girls' softball game and a delicious and enjoyable cook-out. In the softball game, Rookie's Cookies of Westlake Park terminated their season on a successful note as they defeated the 2's of Serramonte by the scord of 10-6. Val Valoria, Patty Lucia, Sally Costello and Heidi performed tenaciously on defense, while Kim Bianchi, Donna Smith, Lisa Meeks, and Patty Rowell displayed their tremendous hitting ability, coming through with several clutch hits. Bruce Costello, Steve Green, Brad Reid and Kirk Dove prepared a delicious gourmet meal.

The menu included hamburgers, hot dogs, cokes, potato chips, marshmallows, and potato salad, as over 50 youngsters participated in this great cook-out. Coming special events at Westlake Park include a cook-out every other week, a pet show, a scavenger hunt, a tournament day, and a track and field meet. Other activities encompassing all age groups will be cartoons, arts and crafts and outings to various places.

WESTMOOR PARK
By PAUL PHALEN

The City Champion Girls' Softball team from Westmoor Park won their last three games. They defeated Westlake Park 13-1; the Sophomores and seniors 15-14 and their parents, 9 to 3. Their over-all record is now 18 wins and 2 loses. Co-captains Linda Wyatt and Connie Thodos were once again sensational defensively. At the pite, Gil Folden, Dainne Wanisalo, Eay Greenblatt, Gerry Glass, Lauren Brown, Karen Agnon, Shaon DeAlba, Loas Weiner and Lizanne McInnis provided plenty of base hits. Dan Tomzak, Bill Allen and Brendan Milton have all done a great job coaching the girls. The girls also appreciate the outstanding umpiring of John E. Murray.

PALISADES PARK
By PAUL GASTA

Congratulations are due Steve Perone, Donald Dean, Steve Carmen and Marty Dean for their efforts in helping the Daly City Fire Department control a grass fire that broke out on the cliff behind Palisades Park, June 24. The four boys threw sand on the fire while waiting for the firemen. The other smaller children who attended Palisades Park are also to be commended for their behavior during the incident. No one bothered the firemen and thus, the flames were quickly extinguished and no one was injured. Palisades Park will have a cook-out every Friday at 1 p.m. Anyone wishing to participate need only bring their own hot dogs, marshmallows and beverages. After the meal, all participants are invited to stay on for games and other activities.

VISTA MAR
By VIRGINIA SIMON

Sunshine means playtime and last week's sunny days brought many enthusiastic ball players out at Vista Mar. Because the boys were so interested in forming up teams, a boy's champion checker player could not be found as everyone was too busy playing ball. The girls, on the other hand, managed to fill in both activities. Lori Daniels came in first and Liz Denning, second, and they quickly scooted over to the softball diamond for a few fast innings of ball. These girls won't be beat — they won over Abraham Lincoln School recently 11 to 6. Their coach, Wayne Nielson really has these girls giving their all to win.

NORTHRIDGE PARK
By RUSS JORDON

Monday at Northridge Park there was a Carom and Paddle Pool Tournament with a junior and senior division. On Tuesday there was a scavenger hunt with first, second, and third prizes. The special outing this Thursday is to Marin Town and Country Club. The buss will leave at 10 a.m. On Friday, a cook-out will be held at noon.

F. D. ROOSEVELT SCHOOL
By JACK RAINEY

F. D. Roosevelt School's introduction week to the Recreation Department's Summer Program included such things as a trip to Montara Beach, movie and cartoons, arts and crafts and a wide variety of indoor and outdoor sports and games. Although table tennis has only played a part of the many activities, early indications are that Don Thuener, Steve Giannini and Rob Ward will be top competition during the August tourney. As far as field sports go, in Division A, rugged contenders have been Steve Revel on the basketball courts, and Frank Marques, who thus far leads in batting the most baseballs out of the park, on the diamond. In Division B, Mike Jasey and John Sabalvaro have been named the athletes of the week. The "Participant of the Week" which is in reference to that boy or girl who has been the most active goes to Clay Troxler and Julie Hernandez.

OUR LADY OF MERCY

THE POST'S SPORTS

What He Wants...

LAST WEEK, we followed the five-year odyssey of Terra Nova baseball coach Al Figone through the land of The Losers to the Golden Fleece — the Central Coast Section championship. It would be an exaggeration to say that he and his teams during that period had to perform Herculean tasks, but their wanderings through the various colleges of the University of Hard Knocks did and not without discomfort, ingrain in Figone a group of interesting ideas which we feel are worth recounting for the benefit of you prep school baseball buffs.

Perhaps the primary thing Figone learned during both his bad and good times was the kind of boy he wanted playing baseball for Terra Nova:

"What the program involved, and still involves, is the kid dedicating himself to baseball all year around, learning our system and all doing things essentially the same way while allowing for individual differences in ability.

"I don't want kids out there who just want to earn a block or see their name in the paper, kids who are just out there for thier own personal glory. I want kids who want to win for the school . . . who play baseball just because they enjoy it."

ONE OF FIGONE'S more interesting ideas on how to develop a winning high school team is to virtually ignore may of the things big leaguers say at the numerous coaching clinics which prep coaches attend.

"High school coaches go to these things and listen to what Leo Durocher, for example, has to say about how the game is played in the majors, and how baseball is baseball, no matter where it's played, and then they go back to their team and try to make the kids play like the Chicago Cubs. But no matter what they say, baseball isn't the same game at the high school level.

There are so many things you can do differently. Bunting, fo instance. Major leaguers will tell you that in many situations the percentages are better for the batter hitting safely than bunting safely, and with the types of defenses most major league clubs can now mount against the bunt, that's true.

But high school defenses just aren't that sophisticated, and the chances for a safe bunt, and maybe a poor throw allowing for an extra base, are much, much higher than they are in the majors.

"At the high school level you can generally be more daring, take advantage, for instance, of a poor throwing catcher. Most major league catchers can throw, and most high school catchers can't. You can do an awful lot of running at the high school level that you can't do in the majors.

"THERE ARE JUST so many things you can do much more successfully at our level than you can do at the professional level. The point is, that a high school coach must adjust his thinking to the high school level of baseball.

"Here's another example. Baseball should be fun, but it doesn't necessary have to be for a pro. It MUST be for a high school kid. His only payment, really, is the personal satisfaction he can derive from it. So, for instance, I let my kids take plenty of batting practice because the most fun about baseball for most kids is hitting. And, by the way, we've always had a good hitting ball club, possibly because of all of the batting practice we have.

"Now, a lot of scouts say there's no hitting in the big leagues because kids don't get enough batting practice in high school. But that's not necessarily so. In fact, a lot of coaches let the kids have a lot of batting practice. But you can have batting practice all day and still not learn how to hit. Batting practices have to be properly organized to be of any value.

"At Terra Nova, we don't just let them swing. We have them doing definite things, have them thinking about what they're doing. We have two types of batting practice; what I call 'groove' hitting, which is just taking your swings, loosening up, and then game batting practice.

"In game batting practice we practice on specific weakness of individual batters, we practice hitting behind the runner, making them conscious of the strike zone, and so forth. I never want a kid up there in batting practice who isn't conscious of what he' doing and why he's doing it. I want him conscious of what he's doing right as well as what he's doing wrong. If he's hitting line drives, I'll stop and tell him why he's hitting them so that he can remember what he was doing right when he was hitting well, when he had the good swing going for him.

"I DON'T BOTHER the hitters too much during a game. They've got enough to think about. But I do hammer at them to get the pitch to hit that they want to hit, and not to give in to the pitcher."

Figone has a unique way of keeping his pitchers in condition. Before the season begins, he makes a bargin with them. He tells them what their conditioning schedule should be and then asks them if they agree with him. So far, they always have. Then later in the season if a pitcher complains about all the running he has to do, Figone merely reminds him that HE agreed to it and that there are witnesses (other members of the pitching staff) to attest to that fact. If the pitchers refuses to live up to his bargain, Figone tells him it's grounds for dismissal. They shape up, and if they don't, Figone feels he doesn't want that type of individual playing for Terra Nova, anyway.

Like most high school coaches, Figone doesn't believe in allowing his pitchers to throw trick pitches. He emphasizes fast ball and curve, and says that the good fast ball is still the best pitch in baseball.

He doesn't encourage trick pitches because they are often bad for the arm, and also because it's a rare scout who will look at a young pitcher who relies on a trick pitch. Figone looks out for the baseball future of his youngsters.

But, says Figone, if a kid has an exceptional knuckleball, for instance, and he feels that the kid can go some place in baseball with that knuckleball, he'll let him use it. So far, however, he's never run across a kid with a good enough trick pitck to make it professionally solely on that. The kid must have a "major league" arm, ie, a good fast ball.

UNLIKE SOME COACHES, Figone has his players work on strengths as well as weaknesses. If, for example, a shortstop is good going to his left but weak going to his right, Figone won't keep banging fungoes to his right, but will hit an equal number to the young player's left.

Figone's feeling is that if he continually worked on the player's weakness only, the player might feel as if he were being shown up or lose confidence. But being given an equal chance to show his best side helps to boost his confidence.

Figone utilizes four kinds of workouts rather than the mundane day-in, day-out, two-times-around-batting-ractice and six-rounds-of-infield practice type of schedule.

He has what he calls pre-game workouts, which occur in February, before the practice season starts, then come the practice game workouts, followed by league game workouts for the first round of the twice-around schedule, and finally late season workouts for the second time around.

In the pre-game workouts he stresses fundamentals and conditioning. The practice game workouts still lean heavily toward fundamentals, but there is also much work on specific mistakes made in practice games. In league game workouts, the players work towards the teams they are to play next, working, in effect, on scouting reports. On the second round, in late season, the workouts are general.

Incidentally, John Burgess, Figone's ace pitcher, threw a runless one inning in that recent North-South High School All-Star Baseball Game at Candlestick.

LOCAL NOTE: Dick Coltrell, Westmoor High principal, won the recent Oceana Invitational Golf Tournament (featuring athletic coaches and staff from the NPL) with a net 63.

LAST THOUGHT: On the Joe Namath matter: everyone who says that Namath will be back says he will return when he understands the responsiblity he has towards others — his teammates, fans, etc. No one ever mentions Namath's utltimate responsiblity — the only one which will bring him back: JOE NAMATH . . . Joe Namath and that alleged five million dollars he loses if he stays retired.

Sea Lions Seek Sponsors Of Swiming Meet Events

Final plans are being made for the Pacifica Sea Lions Swim Club's Class "B" Swim Meet to be held at Terra Nova July 26 and 27.

This is the fourth year that the Sea Lions have hosted the big meet, drawing competitors from as far away as Monterey.

Last year the meet attracted over 1,000 people on each off the two days.

The Sea Lions are presently scouting for merchants and businesses to sponsor the events. The money goes directly into the medals and ribbons for the winners of each event, of which there are 72. To sponsor an individual event, it costs $5 and for a relay $10.

The sponsors are gratefully acknowledged in the programs. Anyone interested in sponsoring an event should contact Gary Alexander, or Ginny Silva.

COMMUNICATION

U.S. AIR FORCES, Thailand — Airman First Class William G. Carnevale, son of Mrs. Mildred V. Ferrari, 1305 Marshall St., Redwood City, is a member of an Air Force Communications Service unit in Southeast Asia that has earned the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award for the third time.

Airman Carnevale is a communications specialist with the 1974th Communications Group at Nakhon Phanom Royal Thai AFB, Thailand, that was cited for outstanding communications support to combat units in Thailand from July 1967 to June 1968.

SAVES YOUNG AIRMAN'S LIFE

Daly City Youth Is Cited For Heroism in Vietnam

A Daly City youth was awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal for heroism in Vietnam as he returned to this country after an 18-month tour of duty in the battle zone.

Frank M. Gallegos, 24, who returned to civilian life with sergeant's stripes, won the medal for saving the life of a young fellow airman while serving at Cam Ranh Bay Air Base last summer.

Sgt. Gallegos, then an airman first class, was a specialist in refueling jet warplanes. On August 26, a mobile refueling unit backfired, setting the fellow airman ablaze as the highly combustible military fuel flamed.

Gallegos raced to the victim, knocked him down, ripped off his own uniform shirt and smothered the flames.

His commendation pointed out that he had distinguished himself by his fast analysis and quick reaction, and that these had "greatly reduced the severity of the airman's burns and possibly saved his life.

"By his prompt action and humanitarian regard for his fellow man, Airman Gallegos has reflected credit upon himself and the United States Air Force," the citation reads. It is signed by Air Force Secretary Harold Brown and Gen. George S. Brown, commanding general, Seventh Air Force.

Gallegos, a native of Salinas, moved with his family to Daly City in 1956, and is a graduate of Jefferson High School, '63, where he played freshman football.

He also attended College of San Mateo and plans to resume studies there in the fall.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gallegos, proprietors of Estrada's Spanish restaurant in Daly City, and a nephew of Albert Gallegos, with whom he lives at 7440 Mission Road, Daly City.

Broadmoor Ready For July 4 Event

One of the north county's Fourth of July activities will be the annual Broadmoor Property Owners' Association parade, to start at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Kay Ickler, chairman, announced yesterday that the parade will form at Eighty-seventh Street and Larchmont Drive, proceeding east to Bryant Street and Sullivan Avenue.

Five judges will view the parade from a stand to be erected in front of the Broadmoor Community Center, Eighty-seventh and Washington Streets.

A number of floats, drill teams and other marching units, in addition to novelty entries, will be included in participants in the parade, Mrs. Ickler said.

Among them will be the 188th Highland Grenadiers, a junior drill team from North Highlands, antique cars, the San Pablo recreation department's pompon girls; the Daly City Community Chorus and Shakey's Pizza Parlour band.

Each division of the parade will be headed by members of the branches of the Armed Forces.

Cub, Boy and Girl Scouts will march as well.

PoPo, the Clown, will entertain youngsters following the parade, at the community center.

Also to be displayed will be a fullscale model of the NIKE-Hercules missile, by the fortieth artillary brigade, Air Defense, from the Presidio of San Francisco.

Broadmoor police and Colma firemen will head the parade.

Annual Striped Bass Derby Starts July 4 In Pacifica

The Pacifica Jaycees' sixth annual Striped Bass Derby in Pacifica will start July 4 and fishermen who plan to practice their sport on that weekend are invited to attend the casting demonstrations by Alvey representatives and participate in the opening festivities.

The contest ends on midnight of September 7.

On June 24, an open meeting was held by the Pacifica Jaycees to inform the people of Pacifica of all aspects of the Bass Derby. The meeting was attended by sporting goods retailers, fishermen and other interested parties.

Mike Austin of Radio Station KNBR in San Francisco also attended the meeting and announced that KNBR would cover the Bass Derby on their station and work closely with the Pacifica Jaycees in planning special events during the derby.

Fish caught during the derby can be weighed in and registered at the following locations: Pacifica Sports Center, 2130 Palmetto Avenue; Jet Gun and Reel, 1604 Francisco Boulevard; 7-11 Speedy Mart, 100 Clarendon Road; Pedro Point Boat House, Danman Avenue; all in Pacifica.

Tickets for the Bass Derby may be purchased at any weigh-in station or from one of the Jaycees who will be circulating around the beaches during the derby. When purchasing a ticket, each person will also receive a contestant's badge to identify him as a participant in the Bass Derby.

Rules for the championship West Coast Bass Derby include:

Striped bass only are eligible for the weekly prizes. The person who registers the largest salmon and the person who registers the largest surf perch will each receive a custom-built surf rod.

Contestants must possess a 1969 Bass Derby ticket and a valid California State Fishing License.

Price of the Bass Derby tickets will be $1 each. Contestants may purchase as many tickets as they desire and may enter any and all fish on one ticket.

In the event a contestant loses his ticket, validation will be made by verifying the ticket stub and proper identification.

Fish entered do not necessarily have to be caught off ocean beaches. All fish must be registered within 24 hours after they have been caught.

Time for the weigh-in of fish will be during normal business hours at an official weigh-in station or by an official representative.

No member of the Pacifica Jaycees or their immediate families, or representatives of the Pacifica Jaycees or their immediate families will be eligible for any awards.

The Pacifica Jaycees reserve the right to make all final decisions concerning the Bass Derby and-or the fish entered. Any person in violation of the Bass Derby rules will be disqualified.

Nine anglers will win Alvey surf combination, featuring the Alvey Reel from Australia and a Sabre Rod, for putting the capture on the largest bass of the week during the contest.

In addition a custom surf rod from Aurora Custom Rods will be awarded for the largest surf perch and the largest salmon caught from the shore during the contest.

D.C. Barber Hit by Auto

Highway patrolmen said the accident happened at Kavanaugh and Gertrude Drives at 9:40 a.m.

The victim's wife, Hazel, told officers she and her husband were walking to their car and he was standing by the door, preparing to get in, when a car sped by and struck him.

Parents Beam as Three Sons Receive Diplomas

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Pettigrew of 408 Briarwood Drive, South San Francisco, were proud parents recently when three of their sons were graduated all in one week.

Paul, 27, and John, 21, received their diplomas from San Francisco State College, while Robert, 14, graduated from Southwood Junior High School.

Married and the father of three children, Paul attended SF State College as a night student. He resides at 150 Escanyo Drive and is employed by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company as an industrial relations representative. He plans to obtain his Master's degree in this field. Mrs. Pettigrew Sr. praised her daughter-in-law, Adair, for "her encouragement, non-complaints and many lonely evenings" so that her husband might continue with his studies.

John, 21, a psychology major, has applied to California State at Hayward for graduate work. In the future he plans to teach at the secondary level of work for the California Youth Authority as an accredited psychologist.

Robert, 14, will finish his high school curriculum at South San Francisco High. Both of his brothers are graduates of SSF High. Paul also served with the USAF for three years. Both John and Paul are graduates of All Souls Catholic School and Robert, St. Veronica's Grammar School.

1,000 Student Applications In For Skyline Opening in Fall

More than 1,000 student applications for the opening semester at the new Skyline College have been recived by the San Mateo Junior College District, the Board of Trustees learned Wednesday night.

According to Rex Burler, head of the admissions and registration office at the new college, this figure is comparable to the number who had applied by the end of June last year at Canada College as it prepared for its opening.

Skyline is expecting a final total of about 2,000 day students and roughly the same enrollment at night, according to Butler.

In other action, the board:

Lowered the maximum age for required physical education at the district's three colleges from 25 to 21, to conform to the state maximum requirement.

Awarded to Security Pacific National Bank of Los Angeles, low bidder at what Assistant Superintendent for Business Affairs Matteo V. Fasanaro termed an "almost unbelievable" interest rate of 4¾ per cent, the financing contract for more than a million dollars worth of furniture and equipment for Skyline College.

Approved deeding roughly five acres of slope land adjoining Junipero Serra Freeway at Canada College to the state, with the understanding that the state will landscape, fence and maintain the slope, and pay the full cost of correcting a $10,000 earth slide in the area.

Accepted the resignation of Robert S. Hoover as assistant to the chancellor for minority programs, effective August 31. Hoover is leaving to become director of Nairobi College, a new private junior college to be established in the fall in East Palo Alto.

Promoted Gilbert de la Rocha from acting head of the Readiness Program at College of San Mateo to head of cooperative education at the college.

Appointed Robert C. Fryckman, assistant dean of students at Napa College, to be dean of men and student activities at Canada College, replacing James C. Wyatt, who is transferring to the administration of Skyline College.

Made a number of other personnel appointments, including the following new faculty: Loretta J. Hergert, Helen L. Langsev and Joseph Machnick Jr. at Canada; Agnes E. Benjamin, Paul J. Blostein, Musonda D. Mantabe and June C. Wu at College of San Mateo, and Donald H. Brown, Theodora J. Craane, Patricia J. Erickson, Henri Ann Nunly, Richard H. Yurman and Judy Ann Wilkinson at Skyline.

Named Cletus S. Banwarth, currently assistant to the president at Skyline College, to be chairman of the mathematics-physical sciences division. Banwarth, a 22-year veteran of the CSM faculty, formerly was chairman there of the mathematics-engineering division.

Unprecedented Blood Ballet

Violence begat hostility at the Warner Bros.-7 Arts Film Festival screening of "The Wild Bunch" in the Grand Bahamas Islands last week.

Critics were not divided equally on feelings that ranged from repulsion and total disgust to claiming it as one of the great films of 1969. The former were in the majority, so be forewarned that if you're a western-adventure-action fan you'll have to wade through a lot of gore before the last man is killed.

Let's start with the negatives: four bands of bad guys keep crossing paths, and bullet fire; scores of women are caught in the repeated raids on towns and villages (Director Sam Peckinpah claims he's "emotionally unable to show children being slaughtered" although there are plenty of them around when the massacres take place); and it's the bloodiest, most grisly spectacle of slow motion killing ever yet to hit the screen.

On the positive side, with negative overtones, don't think it's the violent film to end all violent films. With their new technique of spurting arteries and blowing flesh so realistically toward the camera (the liquid is encased in plastic vials beneath the clothing and explodes electronically by the actor pushing a button in the palm of his hand), you can expect the next in this genre to show us even more detailed mutiliations of the human anatomy.

PECKINPAH MIGHT HAVE meant to show us the overlapping story of men out of tune with their time and decided instead to stage a blood ballet. The wild bunch of renegades who look for loot and adventure in Mexico when the West becomes tamed with telephones, automobiles, trains and progress of industrial revilution.

They agree to sell stolen rifles and ammunition to the Mexican revolutionaries, led by the renowned Mexican film director Emilio Fernandez, who in turn are being harrassed by Pancho Villa's group. Ben Johnson, Warren Oates, William Holden and Ernest Borgnine are being tracked down by a band of scruffy, ruthless hired killers led by Robert Ryan, who has the choice of wiping out his one-time partner-in-crime Holden or go to jail as a thief.

There are moments of high adventure, set among rugged mountains and deep arroyos of Mexico, but sequence after sequence is a blood bath that is guaranteed to send members of the audience into the lobby for relief from the throat-cutting, machine-gunning, face-blowing, limb-tearing orgy that is made more unbearable by shooting in slow motion.

Since there are no heroes, no good guys, and so many innocent people who are slaughtered, there is little point in cheering the success, or even hoping any one group will come out alive.

ALL THESE MEN SEEM TO KNOW and live for is killing. Double crosses, stupidity, and greed motivate their decisions and loyalty is only a means to an end.

The performances are uniformly good, the scenery is stupendous, and the action excellent. But in their efforts at realism, the language and toughness of the characters is only secondary to the shocking effect of the killing.

It certainly isn't a film for everyone. And not even the violent, sadistic Clint Eastwood duo, "For a Few Dollars More" and "Fistful of Dollars," prepare you for this one.

3 Arrested In Daly City

Three Peninsula men were arrested Monday morning by Daly City police and charged with auto theft after they were seen pushing a stolen car down Geneva Avenue.

Police said the trio were spotted by a patrolman pushing the car through the city, using another car about 1 a.m.

A check revealed the car had been stolen earlier in San Francisco.

The suspects were identified as Tito Moctezuma, 28, and his brother, Daniel Moctezuma, 20, of San Jose, and Martin Rodriguez, 20, of Mt. View.
